NECESSITY OF KEEPING OTTAWA AGREEMENTS INTACT STRESSED TO KELOWNA BOARD OF TRADE

M. E. Nichols, Managing Director Of Daily Province, Brings Weighty Topic

Trade and tariffs within the Empire countries, and the necessity for keeping the structural character of the Ottawa Agreements intact, proved an interesting subject by Mr. M. E. Nichols, Managing Director of the Vancouver Daily Province, to the Kelowna Board of Trade at the Royal Anne Hotel on Wednesday evening.

Unfortunately, the attendance was quite meagre, only thirty-five Board of Trade and Junior Board members being present. However, the address given by Mr. Nichols proved one of intense interest, as the Imperial Conference now being held in London is being anxiously watched by the fruit interests in this valley.

With the background of the Coronation, Empire Day and the Imperial Conference, Mr. Nichols considered his discussion of trade and tariffs between Empire countries to be one of topical interest. This Imperial Conference is divided into two divisions, tariffs and duties, and foreign policies. There are two big questions, he stated, and he chose to deal with the former.

Fathered By Chamberlain

Trade and tariffs has been an Empire question for the past 35 years, he continued, ever since Joseph Chamberlain initiated a movement for inter-Empire trading, mutually profitable to all parts, in Great Britain, then a free trade country. He was keenly aware of the vast proportions of the British Empire, and was worried about it, as he considered that there was a need for something tangible than friendships and loyalties to keep the Empire together. Chamberlain thought that there should be a consolidation of interests, Mr. Nichols stated.

But Mr. Chamberlain did not meet with success and his ideas of bringing it about never got beyond an academic question. On the other hand, inter-Empire trade became the hottest question of its day in England. He aimed at the setting up of tariffs against foreign nations in a country which had practiced free trading for a hundred years. It was a long and bitter battle, and the government in which Mr. Chamberlain was a shining light, was defeated.

But the seed had not been planted in vain and in 1923, due to the economic situation and the fact that the ground had been ploughed and harrowed by Joseph Chamberlain, tariffs were set up.

Mr. Nichols gave this description as a background to current events, and he launched then into a discussion of the Ottawa Agreements which were only evolved with difficulty.

Great Value To Canada

"These Ottawa Agreements have proved of great value to Canada, and they will prove of increasing value to Canada, and in the structural character should not be disturbed," he declared, stressing the point that the United States is extremely anxious to gain a seat at that Empire table.

He expressed the hope, not with any wish to cast reflections on the United States, that Canada's representatives are not flinching with any ideas of making changes in the Ottawa Agreements, so as to throw open the doors to the country to the south.

In explanation, he stated: "We cannot ignore that our preference is a narrow one, and any splitting of the preference will mean splitting the trade. Thus it would only result in a little interference to make the benefit of the Ottawa Agreements negligible to Canada."

Mr. Nichols referred to the nature of the influences which inspired the Ottawa Agreements and said that "the whole preferential apple cart may be upset if any disturbance is allowed by overtures of the United States or any other foreign country."

Some persons refer to the Ottawa Agreements as a cold business proposition. Mr. Nichols continued, and to a great extent they were, but the ties of friendship of the British Empire drew the countries together to take shelter in a time of economic storm, despite this severe business basis. In those cold, dark days of depression in 1932, what country could Canada have turned to, other than Great Britain, he asked, while every other country was building higher and higher tariffs against Canadian natural products.

"There was only one market we could turn to and it was opened in the spirit of British brotherhood."

"These Ottawa Agreements are a very delicate organism and if we prize them we should jealously guard them. They are the product of a long, slow growth and are an Empire affair. As such they should be kept in the family of British nations. If we start to trade what we have got for something we might gain, then all the King's Horses and all the King's Men might have difficulty in bringing them together again."

The outset of his address, Mr. Nichols referred to his first visit to Kelowna at the time of the Regatta. He was charmed and impressed with the Regatta and to him it was a revelation of the civic spirit which put the proper emphasis on the qualities to be put into youth.

TRAIL MEN LOOK FOR BIG TOURIST TRADE IN 1937

Chelan Man Named President Of Okanagan-Cariboo Trail Association

HARRY BROAD IS VICE-PRESIDENT

Annual Meeting At Kelowna On Sunday Was Optimistic Affair

With the prediction that the 1937 season will find more tourist travel in the Pacific Northwest than for many seasons past, the annual general meeting of the Okanagan-Cariboo Trail Association, held at the Royal Anne Hotel in Kelowna, on Sunday, May 23, was one of the best functions of its kind on record.

American visitors to this affair were from Seattle, Cashmere, Wenatchee, Chelan, Omak and Okanagan, Wash., and they were strong in the belief that 1937 will be a banner tourist year. The fact that more hard surfacing will be done in the Okanagan Valley, thus providing more comfort to the travelling public, was expected to play a big part in the attracting of tourists north through this scenic Valley.

Dr. Dewar Elected

Dr. Doug Dewar, of Chelan, Wash., was elected as President of the O.C.T.A., succeeding Mr. Harry Fischhaller, of Omak. Mr. Harry Broad, of Kelowna, was named first Vice-President and Mr. Willard Abel, of Wenatchee, second Vice-President. Directors are Messrs. R. J. Vogler, Chelan; B. Spurr, Omak; S. T. Miller, Kelowna; Mr. Ray Clark, formerly of Wenatchee, and now of Yakima, was named Honorary President, while Mr. A. E. Meighen, Kamloops, was the choice as Honorary first Vice-President and Mr. H. Fischhaller, Omak, Honorary second Vice-President.

At the subsequent executive meeting, Mr. R. G. Rutherford, of Kelowna, was unanimously returned to the post of Secretary-Treasurer, while Mr. L. J. Wood, Penticton, was again appointed as Field Manager.

An active campaign to raise funds for the Association was mapped out, and it was decided that a definite effort should be made to put the organization upon a sound financial basis, to make way for new schemes to publicize the Trail, and capitalize on the increasing tourist business which is expected to accrue in the next few years.

Met Penticton Board

On Saturday a number of the visiting United States contingent stopped in Penticton to meet the Penticton Board of Trade executive at dinner and discuss the work which the Association is doing to attract tourists to the part of the Northwest. This is the first occasion upon which the two executives had ever officially met.

On Sunday morning the Americans were guests of some of the Kelowna members on a fishing jaunt on Okanagan Lake. Although catches were not numerous, the visitors expressed their enjoyment of the sport. In fact, so delighted were they with the possibilities of the fishing lakes in this vicinity that they are organizing a second visit to the Kelowna district next week-end.

Revelstoke Board of Trade expressed its regret at being unable to arrange a delegation to the Association meeting on Sunday, but indicated an eagerness to join in schemes to attract tourists. It is anticipated that with the opening of the Big Bend road next summer a great tourist attraction will be created, and the Okanagan is the logical entrepote to the Big Bend country. The possibilities of this reasoning from a tourist standpoint are being seriously considered by members of the Okanagan-Cariboo Trail Association.

Besides the Kelowna members, those in attendance at the annual meeting here, were as follows:

Those Ottawa Agreements are a very delicate organism and if we prize them we should jealously guard them. They are the product of a long, slow growth and are an Empire affair. As such they should be kept in the family of British nations. If we start to trade what we have got for something we might gain, then all the King's Horses and all the King's Men might have difficulty in bringing them together again."

The outset of his address, Mr. Nichols referred to his first visit to Kelowna at the time of the Regatta. He was charmed and impressed with the Regatta and to him it was a revelation of the civic spirit which put the proper emphasis on the qualities to be put into youth.

CAPT. C. R. BULL Liberal

REV. S. N. DIXON C.C.F.

T. G. NORRIS, K.C. Conservative

With only five days left before the result of the B. C. elections will become known, interest in the campaign has reached a fever heat in the South Okanagan riding, with chief interest centred on the Liberal and Conservative candidates.

This election campaign, now drawing to a close, has been one of the most strenuous in the history of the riding, and for the past two or three weeks hardly an evening has passed by without a political meeting being held in this district.

The three candidates are as follows: Capt. C. R. Bull, Liberal; Rev. S. N. Dixon, C.C.F.; Mr. T. G. Norris, K.C., Conservative.

GOLDEN WEDDING OF POPULAR COUPLE

Fiftieth Anniversary Of Mr. And Mrs. R. A. Copeland Is Celebrated

On Saturday afternoon, May 22nd, the Willow Lodge was the scene of a very lovely reception when over two hundred friends and members of the family of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Copeland gathered to congratulate them upon their golden wedding anniversary.

The Lodge was beautifully decorated with lilacs, golden tulips and California poppies. Mr. and Mrs. Copeland received their many friends before an arch of lilacs and ferns.

Mrs. S. J. Weeks presented Mrs. Copeland with a beautiful bouquet of calla lilies. Mr. J. N. Thompson followed this presentation by recalling the early life of the honoured couple, and Mrs. J. N. Thompson read an address of appreciation. Miss Gertrude Chapin then made the presentation of a purse of gold from the assembled friends.

Mrs. Ennis, Sr. Mrs. S. J. Weeks and Mrs. Robert Ennis presided at the tea tables, which were tastefully decorated with golden tulips and poppies. Mrs. Ivor Newman, Mrs. Charles DeMara, Mrs. A. Handlen, Miss Helen Ennis, Miss Gertrude Chapin and the Misses Jennens assisted in serving.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Copeland were guests of honour at a dinner in the Willow Inn, when about forty members of the family and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. George McKenzie and Mr. George Thompson gathered to offer further congratulations. The table was attractive with lilacs and golden tulips forming the main decorative motif.

After dinner a very enjoyable social evening was spent. Mr. George McKenzie sang several solos and Mrs. A. H. DeMara gave an amusing recitation. Mrs. Leslie Dilworth was the accompanist.

Members of the Copeland family who were present upon this occasion included: Mrs. N. Quenel, Williams Lake, B.C.; Mrs. L. Wilbur, Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. D. A. KELOWNA GIRL MISSING FROM HER HOME HERE

Nellie Scott, Age 15, Believed To Have Left City On Wednesday, May 19

Dora Allen "Nellie" Scott, aged 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Scott, Ellis Street, has been missing from Kelowna since Wednesday, May 19, and to date no trace of her whereabouts can be found, despite a province-wide search by the Provincial Police.

Sergeant A. Macdonald, of the Kelowna detachment, B.C. Police, reveals that the girl is believed to have left Kelowna in company with Herbert Witich, aged 19, and Edgar Endall, aged about 27, in the latter's car. Both these men have been residents of Kelowna for some time.

The local press, for the information of voters, the locale of the various polling places, hence, as a service to the electors, the following list is published:

Bear Creek, Schoolhouse; Benaville, Mission Creek Schoolhouse; East Kelowna, Community Hall; Ellison, Schoolhouse; Glenmore, Schoolhouse; Joe Rich, Schoolhouse; Kelowna, Oddfellows' Hall; Naramata, Unity Hall; Okanagan Centre, Community Hall; Peachland, Municipal Hall; Rutland, Community Hall; South Kelowna, Bellevue Hotel; Summerland, Stark's Hall; Westbank, Community Hall; West Summerland, Oddfellows' Hall; Winfield, Community Hall.

The three candidates in Similkameen riding, to the south, are H. H. Boyle, Conservative; Frank Brown, C.C.F.; Charles H. Tupper, Liberal.

SUM OF $500 IS AVAILABLE FOR BOXLA SURFACING

Kelowna To Get Share Of B. C. Government $10,000 Fund

Mr. Dick Parkinson, President of the Interior Lacrosse Association, received word from Hon. K. C. MacDonald on Wednesday evening that a sum of $500 had been set aside for South Okanagan for the surfacing of box lacrosse boxes. As Kelowna is the only place in this riding which is actively engaged in formation of box lacrosse pitches, it is anticipated that the money will be spent in improvements here.

This allocation is part of a fund of $10,000 obtained by the Provincial Government, in a deal with the Federal Government, for surfacing of box lacrosse boxes throughout the province. Mr. Byron "Boss" Johnson, of New Westminster, is administering the fund, and has given consideration to Interior points, following action by Mr. Parkinson and other Interior lacrosse supporters.

A similar sum has been set aside for North Okanagan and also for Kamloops. No mention has been made of any fund for Similkameen.

Three Teams For City

At an organization meeting of the Kelowna Lacrosse Club, held in Dr. Lloyd Day's office on Wednesday night, about twenty lacrosse players and enthusiasts were in attendance. It is planned to have about three teams for a city league this season, and possibly have one representative team to play exhibition games against other Interior towns.

Any idea of forming an Interior league for this season has been pretty well shelved, as most of the towns involved considered they were not sufficiently well advanced to take long trips and play inter-city matches on schedule. However, a number of exhibition tilts are in the offing.

A further meeting to elect officers and extend plans for organization has been called for next Wednesday evening in Dr. Day's office. A committee, consisting of Dick Parkinson, Dr. Day and Cook Ryan, has been appointed to contact persons who will take an active interest in boxla and join the executive for this season.

A number of practices have already been held, and it is anticipated that a wealth of material will be available for this season.

The car driven by Endall was a 1927 Essex Coupe, licence No. 30,759, and went across to Westbank on the ferry Wednesday afternoon at 5.10 o'clock, according to ferry authorities. The girl is said to have been in the car then. Since that time the police have been unable to locate any trace of the car or the occupants.

A big girl for her age, Nellie Scott is about 5 feet six inches in height and weighs about 130 pounds. She wore a blue tweed skirt, red sweater, short stockings and black oxfords, when last seen.

On Tuesday night, May 18, she was out for a car ride with Witich, and on Wednesday morning she did not appear in her school room, although she left the house with the evident intention of attending school. Both her parents were absent from home on Wednesday morning when she was to leave for her class room.

All Provincial Police offices have been notified of the disappearance and have been asked to check on the car and occupants.

BEAUTIFUL BLOOMS AT TULIP SHOW

Mrs. G. D. Cameron Is Awarded General Harman Bowl For Most Points

The first Parlour Show of the Kelowna and District Horticultural Society, restricted to tulips only, was held in the Royal Anne Hotel on Saturday afternoon, when, despite other events and the distractions of Saturday shopping, about a hundred people admired the beautiful blooms displayed in the five classes of exhibits.

The largest number of entries was made in Class 1, three blooms of one variety. First place was taken for the best collection by Mrs. G. D. Cameron with a wonderful showing of twenty-two named varieties, and the only prize award, that of the General Harman Bowl, was made to her for gaining the most points in the exhibition.

A very fine exhibit of over thirty varieties, not in competition, by Miss M. Bent, and a commercial exhibit by Mr. N. B. Lloyd were both much admired.

The judging was carried out by Messrs. W. J. Palmer and N. B. Lloyd. The results in the various classes were as follows:

Class 1.—Three blooms of one variety in one container, Darwin or breeder. 1, Miss M. Cretin; 2, Mrs. H. Cretin.

Class 2.—Three blooms of one variety in one container, Cottage or May Flowering. 1, Mrs. G. D. Cameron; 2, Mrs. M. E. Cameron.

Class 3.—Vase of six blooms, one variety, own foliage. 1, Mrs. E. H. Oswell; 2, Mrs. G. D. Cameron.

Class 4.—Decorative Vase, any foliage. 1, Mrs. M. E. Cameron; 2, Mrs. E. H. Oswell.

Class 5.—Best collection of named varieties, three of each variety in separate containers. 1, Mrs. G. D. Cameron.

NO HELP TO COME FROM RADIO GROUP

Department Of Transport Says No Funds For Interference Man In Interior

Owing to the difficulty of financing, there is no possibility of establishing a radio interference depot in the Okanagan to serve this Valley, the Similkameen and the Cariboo, the Board of Trade dinner meeting was informed at the Royal Anne on Wednesday night, in correspondence read from the Department of Transport at Ottawa.

This letter stated that the Department had been aware for some time of the need of better service but with the appropriation available no such plan could be carried out.

A technical committee is studying the situation of various stations, throughout Canada, and as a result of the findings material improvements in frequencies and other technical points might be effected, it was said.

Mr. Ben Hoy, Vice-President of the Board, acted as Chairman of the meeting. It was explained that the President, Mr. W. A. C. Bennett, could not officiate at meetings for the time being, as he is under medical supervision, and has been directed not to take an active part in functions.

LIBERAL REGIME IS ATTACKED BY DR. LYLE TELFORD

C. C. F. Leader At Vancouver Charges Campaign Being Financed By "Slush" Funds

SUGGESTS PRESS IS BOUGHT

Party Will Make Good Showing In Provincial Election Telford Claims

Presenting a slashing attack against the old-time political parties, especially the Liberal Government under Premier T. D. Pattullo, Dr. Lyle Telford held the centre of attention of a large group at the Oddfellows' Hall on Friday evening last. The hall was crowded almost to capacity to hear the leader of the C.C.F. party in B.C., whose amusing interludes were received with much laughter and applause.

Liquor interests providing "slush" funds for the Liberal party were deprecated by the C.C.F. leader. He charged that the big companies are financing the Liberal campaign because they are afraid of the possibility of a C.C.F. government.

Going back to 1913, Dr. Telford stated that the B.C. debt was then $23,000,000, of which the P.G.E. debt amounted to $20,000,000. Since that time the debt has been advanced about $127,000,000. Of this the Conservative regimes added $62,000,000, and the Liberal governments $65,000,000, so he estimated that the people could take the choice between the two. The debts of the province have been going up and the assets are decreasing, whereas the debts should decrease from the revenue of the natural resources of the country.

"Are they going to pay this debt? They say they are, but they lie like troopers," he charged. "The debt can never be paid the way they are carrying on."

He harked back to the days when the municipalities approached Premier Pattullo in a body. Pattullo had said to the municipalities, "Come up and see me sometime," but when they arrived he kept them waiting for three days, stated Dr. Telford.

WHITHAM BOWLING RINKS BRING HOME COUPLE OF CUPS

Kelowna Captures Two Major Trophies At Salmon Arm Tournament

Two out of the four rinks sent north from Kelowna on Empire Day to the Salmon Arm bowling tournament were highly successful in their competitions and came home with all the silverware available. The men's rink, skippered by Don Whitham, won the Kennedy Cup without the loss of a single match, while Mrs. Don Whitham's ladies' rink was just as successful, taking home the Drew Cup without a defeat.

Two rinks were sent from each town entered, including Salmon Arm, Kamloops and Vernon. Vernon only entered ladies' rinks and did not participate in the men's competitions. Out of the twelve games played, the Kelowna rinks lost but three, Bill Crookes' rink being responsible for two losses out of four played, while Mrs. Harry Bowser's foursome won one match and lost one. Mrs. Whitham's rink was composed entirely of bowlers who had never competed before last season.

The Kelowna rinks were composed of the following players:

Walter Thomson, Terry Bennett, Felix Sutton and Don Whitham, skip. Fred Joudry, Ian MacLaren, Vic Freeman and Bill Crookes, skip.

Mrs. H. A. Truswell, Mrs. Ben Hoy, Miss E. Haug, and Mrs. D. Whitham, skip.

Mrs. Madge Armstrong, Mrs. Vic Freeman, Mrs. G. A. McKay, and Mrs. H. G. Bowser, skip.

The Kelowna teams' scores were as follows:

Campbell, Salmon Arm, 15, Whitham, 16; Shaw, Armstrong, 16, Whitham, 22; Jeffers, Salmon Arm, 13, Whitham, 25; Marshall, Armstrong, 14, Whitham, 16; Campbell, Salmon Arm, 30, Crookes, 8; Marshall, Armstrong, 11, Crookes, 15; Brown, Armstrong, 13, Crookes, 14; Jeffers, Salmon Arm, 18, Crookes, 8.

Mrs. Pearson, Vernon, 14, Mrs. Whitham, 20; Mrs. Hurlburt, Vernon, 20, Mrs. Whitham, 21; Mrs. Hurlburt, 20, Mrs. Bowser, 14; Miss June, Salmon Arm, 19, Mrs. Bowser, 25.

B. C. GOVERNMENT RELIEF FIGURES DROP RAPIDLY

March Showed All-Time High But May Payments Will Be Lower Than 1936

LONG WINTER HELD RESPONSIBLE

Employment Now Opening Up And Many Persons Drop Off Relief Voluntarily

After exceeding all records in March, and dropping down in April, Provincial Government relief payments in South Okanagan riding, through the Kelowna sub-agent's office, have decreased at a fast rate, and are now down to a more regular level.

In March of this year 253 heads of families and single persons, along with 738 dependents received $4,794.73 relief in this riding. This sum was about $800 higher than was ever paid out through this office, the previous record being about $4,100 in March, 1935.

April saw a decided drop, being $3,017.85 for 169 heads of families and single persons, with 503 dependents. This month it is estimated that the relief figures will not exceed $1,800.

Dropped Off Voluntarily

The long, cold winter and the resultant tie-up in employment, following a short picking and packing season last year, are held responsible for this heavy expenditure in relief payments. Families who had never previously been on relief called for assistance in March. Mr. A. W. Gray, Relief Administrator, states, however, the decrease in April from 253 to 169 recipients came, to a large extent, voluntarily, while a few others were struck off because of short residence here and for other reasons.

Last year the March payments amounted to $3,630.38 for 196 heads of families and single persons, with 601 dependents, and in April, 1936, the figures were $2,852.55 for 162 recipients with 516 dependents. In May, 1936, the payments amounted to $1,966.70, which is more than will be paid out this month.

Mr. Gray feels that the sudden drop shows that work in the district is now opening up, and augurs well for the amount of employment to be expected this season.

The Kelowna Motorcycle Club held an enjoyable week-end run to Little River fishing camp over the May 24 holiday. Seven solo machines and two sidecar outfits were on the trip, with nineteen persons taking part. They reported that fishing was only fair. A side trip was made to Adams Lake on Monday morning.

Oyama is now on top of the Central Okanagan Baseball League with two straight wins. Results of games played up to the first of this week are as follows: Oyama 6, Maroons 2; Red Sox 9, Winfield 2; Adams 5, Tigers 0; Oyama 9, Winfield 7; Red Sox 4, Adams 4; Tigers 13, Maroons 2.

ENCOURAGEMENT OF TOURIST TRAFFIC

During the wordy battles of the present provincial political campaign much has been heard of the wonderful betterment that would be effected in the roads of the province, if they were placed under the control of a Highways Commission. Basing his judgment upon the results achieved by other such bodies in the past, for instance, the now almost-forgotten Public Utilities Commission, which were not commensurate with their cost, the average citizen may be pardoned for being somewhat sceptical as to the benefits that would accrue from the addition of more officials to the already top-heavy salary list. At one time it was thought necessary to have three officials with large salaries as members of the Liquor Control Board, but their duties are now carried out efficiently by one man, and this example could be followed to advantage in other cases.

The roads of British Columbia are a scandal and disgrace when compared with those south of the border, but there would seem to be a better chance for their improvement if a separate Roads Branch was constituted in the Public Works Department, with a thoroughly trained road engineer at its head, who would concentrate on roads and bridges instead of public works in general, than by the appointment of an academic Highways Commission, composed largely of amateurs burning with zeal to try out theories of road construction at the expense of the public purse.

When construction of further highways and improvement of existing ones is urged, many people are horrified, pointing to the enormous provincial debt and declaring that no further addition can be made to it. It is common practice, however, for good business men to borrow money, if they can make a profit out of doing so, and borrowing money to make good roads is one of the most profitable things the province can do, for there is a direct return in sight in tourist traffic, much of which lucrative business is scared away by the bad reputation achieved by the roads of British Columbia. So long as tourist travel is mainly confined to rail and steamship routes, the volume of the traffic will necessarily be much less than if travellers were able to explore the inner beauties of the province by road in comfort.

According to Mr. C. K. Howard, Manager of the Tourist and Convention Bureau of the Canadian National Railways, tourist and convention travel from the United States and other countries to Canada during last year totalled in numbers approximately twice the population of the Dominion. When official figures were first compiled in 1920, the tourist trade was valued at a total of $83,734,000. By 1929, it had reached a high of $309,379,000. Thereafter it dropped until in 1933, the bottom of the depression, it fell to $117,124,000. Since then, each year has shown an increase until it now stands at an estimated value of $275,000,000 for the season of 1936, representing expenditures for transportation, purchases and accommodation. Of this total, it is estimated that $20,000,000 was spent by those attending conventions, another $20,000,000 by fishermen and hunters, and $235,000,000 by tourist vacationists indulging in various other forms of recreational activities.

How much of this huge sum fell to the share of the Interior of British Columbia? And how much more would have been spent in this portion of the province if it had really good roads?

When the public debt of the province is analyzed, it is seen at once that at least one-third of it is due to the building and operation of the Pacific and Great Eastern Railway, a project whose genesis was due to the frenzied efforts of real estate speculators in Vancouver to stimulate the rapidly declining boom at the Coast in the years immediately preceding the war. The government of the day should have steered clear of the scheme but was persuaded to become associated with it and later, when the partly-completed project was threatened with complete collapse, the administration at that time plunged in up to the neck to save it, with the result that the P.G.E. figured in the "assets" of the provincial balance sheet as at March 31, 1935, at a valuation of $52,413,665, with the terse comment by the Comptroller-General that "this asset is carried at book value, as the ultimate realizable value cannot be determined at this date."

If British Columbia has a claim against the Dominion for unfair treatment in the past, as insistently stated by Premier Pattullo and his predecessors in office, surely the Interior has a claim against the Coast for the enormous expenditure made upon this railway scheme, undertaken originally not for the benefit of the province as a whole but for the purpose of boosting Coast real estate. And that claim can be liquidated in part, even at this late date, by the establishment of a highway system throughout the Interior that will attract a share of the lucrative tourist traffic which now shuns the washboard and dusty surfaces of its rough and bumpy roads.

The P.G.E. now manages to show a small profit over and above its operating expenses but is able to contribute little or nothing to the large annual charge for interest and sinking fund on its cost of construction. On the other hand, highway construction and improvement would bring an immediate return—to the province in increase of gasoline tax due to more travel, and to local communities in the cash expenditures made by visitors. With maintenance of the roads at an adequate standard, this revenue would grow from year to year until British Columbia would at last receive its proper share of the lucrative tourist business enjoyed by other regions of Canada.

Holland makes it convenient for the letter writer—stamp-vending machines are placed alongside mail boxes.

If it is the first drink that causes all the trouble, a wise man will cut it out and start in on the second.

"The 'Ittlesnake' brought up a pile-driver from Summerland on Monday. She lay here overnight as, the weather was somewhat stormy, and took the machine next day to Okanagan Centre, where it will be used on the construction of the new extension to the wharf at that place."

"The 'Oceola,' lately bought by Maddock Bros., Ltd., from Mr. Chas. Harvey, had a trial trip on Saturday to test the new 16 h.p. Rochester gasoline engine lately installed in her by Mr. H. Lysons. Mr. J. D. Kearns was on board and a representative of The Courier was present by invitation. After cruising about the lake, a timed run was made from the ferry wharf on the west side of the lake to the wharf on this side. The distance was covered in 9½ minutes, or at somewhat better than ten miles per hour. When the engine and sparking arrangements got down to regular running, this speed will doubtless be exceeded. At present, the 'Oceola' is the fastest gasoline boat on the lake."

An exhibit of tobacco, grown and cured at Kelowna by Mr. L. Holman, had been sent by the Board of Trade to the International Tobacco Trades Exhibition in London, and received much attention and favourable comment. A leading British trade journal, "Tobacco," made the following reference to the exhibit:

"The display of leaf, manufactured tobacco and cigars from Kelowna, B.C., created attention and interest, and conveyed a very fair idea of the possibilities of British Columbia as a tobacco-producing territory. Notwithstanding that tobacco growing is in its infancy, Mr. Holman, of Kelowna, succeeded in raising many fine specimens of plants, having leaves from two to three feet in length, while cigars made from Vuelta Abajo, Havana leaf, 1902 crop, were equal to many well-known brands of imported Havana. The exhibit included bundles of Wisconsin seed leaf, 1906 crop, a number of bundles, mostly three hands each, of Vuelta Abajo, Havana leaf, crop 1906, and others of the 1902 crop."

"There is a succulence about British Columbia tobacco that is absent from every other country's growth, and which creates a flavour that must be acquired to be truly appreciated. There is ample room in British Columbia for enterprising agriculturists if only they will direct their attention to tobacco planting. Given the necessary attention, there is no reason why, eventually, British possessions should not supply the home market with considerable consignments of leaf every year."

After a terrified run around the field pursued by the box, and just when the cow was getting in a frantic condition, something gave way, presumably the box, as the cow's tail appears to be still intact."

Rutland Notes: "Word has just been received by friends of Pte. Frank Cowrie that he has made the supreme sacrifice in France. He was born in Scotland and came to the Rutland district five years ago, where he entered into partnership with Mr. Loosemore in fruit farming. He went overseas with the local company raised and stationed here two years ago."

"In spite of the contradiction of recent rumours concerning the reported death of Charles Grove, who was a well-known Kelowna resident, it is now learned from an absolutely reliable source that he passed away on April 14th as the result of an injury to his leg. The news comes in a letter to Mrs. J. B. Whitehead, who enclosed a letter from Miss Grove, sister of the deceased. Miss Grove states that her brother received a severe injury to his left leg which necessitated its removal. The poisoning, however, had gone too high, prolonging the operation and causing the sufferer to be in such a weak condition that he died from shock. His death took place at a military hospital in France."

"Mr. G. H. LeCain, best known as the blacksmith who assisted Mr. Blair, had the good fortune to shoot a large brown bear on Tuesday. Mr. LeCain was on the Bald Range, near Bear Creek, when he suddenly saw the animal coming down the hill towards him. He took a hasty shot but a good one, for the first pull of the trigger laid the animal low. A blow on the creature's head with an axe made the work doubly sure. LeCain brought the head and skin back with him to Kelowna. It is an excellent specimen and has been the envy of a great number of local sportsmen."

After considerable delay in coming to a decision on the matter, during which time recruiting necessarily was suspended, the Militia Department decided not to rent quarters and supply rations to the men of the Kelowna Forestry Draft, but to place them on subsistence and lodging allowance of sixty cents per man per day. This figure was based upon the remarkable cheapness with which the Department succeeded in feeding its troops in large camps, averaging from 30 to 35 cents per head per day, and did not take cognizance of the fact that such figures would at least be doubled if the provisions were bought at retail. The Department, on the other hand, bought all supplies at the lowest wholesale prices. Beef, for example, was contracted for at eleven cents per pound and groceries were obtained at a large reduction from retail prices. The allowance, therefore, of sixty cents a day was quite inadequate to secure board and

Odds And Ends

WISE AND OTHERWISE

A SAD, SAD STORY

Alas, we have a sad tale to unfold this week. It concerns two bosom pals, who have been torn apart after years of friendship. No longer will they tread the same paths, tell the same lies, steal each other's fish, and generally carry on like a couple of friendly fellows. All that is in the past, and the story makes us very sad, indeed. It seems that Joe Spurrier and Roy Staples have been separated forever, and what will become of the liberal party, of this column to which both have contributed at various times, and to the Beaverdam mines, we pause to sadly enquire. But we must get on with the story.

THEY WERE VERY FINE TULIPS

Now Roy had a very fine collection of tulips in his office one day last week. They were extremely fine and added to the spirit of politics which his adored Sales Service office for some weeks. But Roy had to pay out some cold cash for these flowers. He considered that those who witnessed the colourful display should collection box in full view, and in order to better appearances he placed two dimes in it as a starter. He feared that some reprobate would pinch these dimes, so he glued them to the box. This stunt worked well, and soon there was about fifty cents contributed, besides the original bait of two dimes.

CAME A THIEF IN THE DARK

But Friday morning came along and Roy went to look in his collection box with a gleam in his eye like Midas of old. Imagine his consternation to find that not only had the fifty cents departed, but the two dimes had also been pried loose from their moorings. There was but one person in Roy's mind who might have perpetrated this dastardly deed—it must have been Joe Spurrier. When tackled concerning his manoeuvrings, Joe could not give a good enough alibi, and his guilty look was too much. "I don't mind you stealing my fish," stormed the purple-faced Roy, "but I do object to your stealing my bait. And forthwith he ordered the shaking Joe out of his sight forever, your Odds and Enders peaking around the corner of the door all this time while the drama was being unfolded."

RETURN FIFTY COPPERS

Not thinking that the time was opportune to approach the said wrathful Roy concerning any business for the forthcoming week, your chief spy stayed under cover, and was thus able to watch the next scene in this swift-moving play. When Roy had absented himself to relieve his feelings by storming at some nearby Tories, back crept Joe and deposited fifty pennies in the collection box. His stubborn pride would not allow him to relinquish the two dimes, however, and thus the breach has not been healed. And so ends this sad, sad story, how one pal found out the real nature of his bosom friend, and cast him out into the cold. If you readers really want a good cry, you had better turn now to True Story or Confessions.

RUSTICATING ON SATURDAY NIGHT

Last week-end your Odds and Enders took unto himself a new experience, and this was a real country Saturday night dance. Probably if the natives read this item they would not like the references, so the place will remain nameless. Suffice it to say that the town is a hole-in-the-wall with one store and one beer parlour and is surrounded by a farming country. The dance hall, when viewed the next day, was found to be an unpainted shack with a very unprepossessing appearance, badly in need of a dash of paint. Lighting was supplied by gasoline lamps, and the illumination was poor, indeed. But who wants illumination at a dance, anyway. Fortunately our party did not arrive until 11.30 at night with only half an hour to go, but that was sufficient, by cracky. The orchestra was made up of three old-timers, one pecking away feebly at a piano, another grinding out some thin, sour notes on a violin, and the third with a mandolin, which could hardly be heard at all. I thought that he was afraid of the instrument. A square dance was in real swing-time progress on arrival, and the girls were getting a few airplane spins, and going through other similar contortions. Then came the more modern dance music, with a real peppy two-step, if you like two-steps. I don't. A dreamy waltz followed, and it turned out to be "Old Black Joe," quite a plaintive melody. Then the orchestra really went to town and got quite brave. After three false starts they swung into the "Stein Song," a really brave attempt. The home waltz followed and all the natives made a bee-line for the grub table. We decided that eating was not in our line at the moment and laughed our way out to the car, feeling convinced that we had had our money's worth of entertainment, and that the initiation into the backwoods dances had been a real treat. These farmers were surely swinging a mean leg, by cracky.

A LOW MURMUR

Down south a mere matter of forty miles there is a columnist, who writes under the guise of Low(e) Murmurs. Recently this Odds and Enders spoke quite strongly and with much praise to this low murmur concerning Kelowna's part in celebrating the Coronation, especially about the artistry and work which went into the Orientals' contribution to the parade. This column feels now just as it did then—that the Chinese and Japanese were deserving of the highest praise for their part in making the celebration the immense success it was. Imagine the surprise, then, to read in the latest issue of Low(e) Murmurs the following rather amazing and, as we think of it, uncalled for, remark: "Of course, we (referring to Penticton) haven't got the Coronation that Kelowna had. We haven't got enough of an Oriental population."

room. In order to render material assistance to the men who were giving their services to the Empire, the City Council patriotically decided to overcome, so far as possible, the difficulties caused by the small pittance allowed by renting for the Draft the S. T. Elliott building on Ellis St. for the men and equipping it with a range, kitchen and tableware and other necessary articles, so that the men could run their own mess and have a comfortable place to stay.

GROWERS OF CHERRIES SHOULD ENJOY A BETTER MARKET
(Vernon News)

Another service has been added to the lengthy list to the credit of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association. This is the formation of the Sunoka Fruit Products Limited.

This new organization is to take over the business formerly operated by the Regal Fruit Co., at Summerland.

The business of the newly organized company will be the processing of cherries. The Okanagan produces some of the finest cherries in the world for processing, and the B.C.F.G.A. has recently been successful in securing a measure of tariff protection which provides Canadians with an opportunity of supplying the demands of the home market.

Shipping houses have agreed to a fair allotment for the diversion of the necessary tonnage to the processing plant and the formation of the Sunoka Co. is the outcome.

The organization of Sunoka should be of considerable benefit in ensuring for growers of cherries fair returns for their labour and investment. With cherries as with all fruits it is the presence of a surplus over what the fresh fruit market readily absorbs, which bears down on the prices. With a fair division of the market, this bearing down process should be eliminated and the returns should be considerably enhanced for all.

Efficiency in the processing, manufacture, and sale of the fresh and processed fruit should cause the returns from the fruit crop to be another bright spot in the fruit growing industry.

WILL YUKON ADDITION HELP B. C. TOWARDS GREATER PROSPERITY?
(Merrill Herald)

The suggested annexing by British Columbia of the Yukon Territory is news that will be received with mixed feelings. An area of 207,076 square miles with a population of less than 5,000 may easily prove to be more of a liability than an asset, in spite of its proved and potential mineral riches.

Without the Yukon, British Columbia contains an area of 372,630 square miles, being roughly equivalent in area to the United Kingdom, France, Holland, Belgium and Denmark combined.

In British Columbia today is a population of fewer than 700,000 persons, fewer than in such cities as Glasgow, Hamburg and Liverpool, leaving out such world centres as New York and London.

It is acknowledged that one of our major problems and needs in British Columbia is greater settlement of the vast undeveloped areas we have.

Although the proposed transfer of the Yukon to British Columbia is a gift by the Dominion, it remains to be seen what benefits this province will receive from the acquisition. The long distance of the Yukon from the heart of things in B.C., together with the cost of administration and maintenance are factors to be borne in mind.

It is said that annexation of the Yukon will make British Columbia the second largest province in Canada in area. If it should turn out that the addition of the Yukon will expedite greater prosperity for British Columbians then the news of the transfer will be welcome news for all.

THURSDAY, MAY 27, 1937

THE KELOWNA COURIER AND OKANAGAN ORCHARDIST

BLOSSOM GIVES PROMISE OF LARGE CROP

Apples And Pears Should Bear Heavily And Stone Fruits Should Equal Yield Of 1936

(From the fortnightly report of the Horticultural Branch, Provincial Department of Agriculture, Vernon.)

No. 1 Vernon, B.C., May 22, 1937.

British Columbia Fruit Prospects, 1937

As reported May 20th: Seasonal conditions for the current year have been somewhat variable. In practically all districts low temperatures and heavy falls of snow were recorded during the winter period. The spring up to the present has been late and cold with abundant rainfall. While the season is somewhat later than normal, all plants and trees that escaped winter injury are showing satisfactory growth.

Small Fruits: On Vancouver Island, strawberries and cane fruits came through the winter in excellent condition. In the Fraser Valley, raspberries, particularly of the Cuthbert variety, show some winter injury. Strawberries wintered well and give promise of a heavy crop, while loganberries also indicate an increased yield over 1936. In the Okanagan district, the possible small fruit production gives indications of a normal crop. A somewhat increased yield of strawberries may be expected in the Kootenay areas, with other small fruits showing normal production.

Tree Fruits: In the Coast sections indications on the whole are for a normal crop. Tree fruits, however, in these areas are not of outstanding importance in comparison with the Okanagan and Kootenay sections. In the Okanagan, it is somewhat early to forecast the possible crop. Apples are in full bloom and present prospects are for a large crop. Pears should also produce heavily, while peaches also give promise of a heavy crop. Other stone fruits are variable but give every indication that such crops will be as heavy as in 1936. In the different Kootenay sections the apple crop should be heavier than that of the previous year. Cherries in these areas indicate a heavy crop at blossoming time.

Vegetables: In all sections there will be an increased acreage of vegetables and other ground crops. Frosts have injured some of the early plantings but, with favourable summer conditions, the total production of all vegetable crops should be quite satisfactory.

Vancouver Island And Gulf Islands

As reported May 19th: During the past winter this district experienced one of the longest continuous cold spells on record, lasting from Dec. 29th, 1936, to the end of February, 1937. Temperatures were not excessively low but a heavy snowfall was followed by a late spring. March weather was more or less seasonable, but April was very abnormal, with dull wet weather and a low record for hours of sunshine. So far in May the April type of weather has continued with a few more fine days.

Plums, sweet cherries and pears were in bloom during the week of April 25th. The weather during the height of the sweet cherry bloom was particularly bad and a poor set is anticipated, but it is a little early to predict what the crop will be. Sour cherries experienced better weather during the blooming period, which is just now going over. Apple bloom is general at present. The petals have fallen from some varieties while others are just coming into bloom.

Strawberries have come along rapidly during the past week and British Sovereign and Magoon are now at about the peak of the bloom. This is a few days behind last year. Due to dull wet weather, seed growth has been difficult to control, but by constant work the patches are now looking in very fair condition.

Loganberries suffered much less from winter injury than in 1936 and prospects are for an increased crop over last year. Better prices are just anticipated. The flower buds are just in the cluster bud stage. Raspberries wintered quite well, as did blackberries. Crop prospects are normal, with raspberries just coming into bloom. There appears to be a normal set of gooseberries, red currants and black currants.

Seed germination has been slow, and bright, sunny weather is needed for good growth. Asparagus has been on the market for some time. Greenhouse tomatoes and cucumbers are moving in volume. The early set of these crops was poor.

Lower Mainland

As reported May 18th: No two years are similar, and to say this is an exceptional year makes one wonder what might be considered a usual series of weather conditions. This year, also, Lower Mainland experienced a long, hard winter, with considerable snow during January and February. March was cold and wet, with only an occasional warm day. April did not herald in spring weather, as the month was very cloudy, dull and cool, with considerable rain. May has been very disappointing so far, although the first few days of the month were warm. Except for these few days, the weather has been very unsettled and cool with heavy showers.

This summary indicates that there has been very little continuous good weather; consequently growth has been retarded, and likewise early spring cultivating, seeding and planting are going forward as opportunity is afforded. The farms on the higher levels are farther ahead with the spring work than those on the lower levels, where in a number of instances the land has been very wet. In the present indications are that there will be an increase in crop production with most small fruits, providing favourable weather is had from now on. Field rhubarb commenced moving in

Gordon's Grocery Ads. Reproduced By Trade Journal

Leading Canadian Trade Publication Finds Courier Advertisements Attractive

The "Canadian Grocer," of Toronto, leading Canadian trade publication, paid Gordon's Grocery and The Kelowna Courier the marked compliment of publishing in its issue of April 16th a reproduction of several of the store's advertisements in The Courier. The ad, which is reprinted above, was accompanied by the following letter-press:

"In the accompanying illustration is a reproduction in part of some recent newspaper advertisements published by Gordon's Grocery (Holmes & Gordon Ltd.) in Kelowna, B.C. The announcements are of the 'long strip' variety, running down the column from top to bottom of the page. The advertisements are well written and above the average."

"Position is, alongside of reading matter, but the shape is different from most grocery announcements. Some retailers do not like the long strip advertisement, preferring the same amount of space but in more of a 'square' arrangement. This enables them to work in a stronger heading and introduction, particularly when they are featuring a certain product or certain types of products. Nevertheless, the 'long strip' type of announcement has carlons on April 13th, about a week earlier than in 1936, and this year, with an orderly arrangement for handling the crop similar to that of 1933 and 1934, growers report satisfactory returns.

During the past winter there has been considerable winter injury to cane fruits, and this is particularly noticeable in the Cuthbert raspberry plantings. Many other varieties are showing little or no serious injury, and this is particularly true of the Lloyd George. Loganberries are showing up a great deal better than in 1936, and from present indications there will be a decided increase in production. Bush fruits are showing a very heavy setting of fruit in most places, and gooseberries are beginning to size.

Good plantings of strawberries are showing no ill effects from winter injury. The delayed spring has retarded development, and while the early varieties such as Dunlap and Early Bird are over the blossoming peak, the British Sovereign and Marshall plantings are only approaching the full blossoming period. A continuous warm spell a little earlier than this would have been very welcome.

Now will bring the crop on rapidly. A few strawberries may be expected about June 10th to 12th. Tree fruits have been showing a medium to heavy amount of blossom. The blossoming period commenced with early plums about April 8th and has extended through to the present time, with late varieties of apples at the blossom peak. The weather has been very poor for an expected heavy setting of fruit, and while it is early to estimate, the yields will be somewhat variable and scattered.

In spite of backward conditions, the truck crop gardeners managed to seed and transplant a considerable acreage of vegetable crops and these are developing gradually. Warm weather would make a considerable change in the range of early vegetables to be offered to the local markets and for mixed crops. The planting of potatoes is going forward as rapidly as possible but only a comparatively small acreage can be looked to for the early market. In some favoured locations potatoes will be ready during the early part of June and from about the 18th there will be a steady increase in quantities.

Salmon Arm, Sorrento And Main Line Points

As reported May 19th: The weather has been extremely changeable since the beginning of April, and unseasonably low temperatures, often accompanied by strong winds, have prevailed. As a consequence, plant growth in general has been much retarded, and the season is at least two weeks behind normal. There is, however, abundant soil moisture and with the advent of warm weather growth should be rapid. On May 5th frost occurred at Kamloops which damaged a considerable acreage of early set tomatoes, also hops. Prospects for irrigation water in the western sections of the district are much better than last year and there should be a good supply. Tree fruits of any kind show little injury, except in the case of trees in which the vitality was low last fall. Stone fruits are in full bloom, also pears. Apples at Salmon Arm and its advocates. "Type is somewhat small. If the broad-shaped announcement were used, it could be made larger, although of course the same number of items could not be listed. The headings might be varied more."

"The introductions to some of the items advertised are to be commended. For instance, one advertisement says: 'Syrup is more than a sweetener—it's good food.' In another regarding cakes and pastry, it is pointed out that they are received fresh every morning. Wording of this kind tends to create a desire on the part of the consumer to possess the goods advertised. There are too many advertisements with nothing but a list of items and prices without descriptive matter. These sometimes look as if the merchant had been overstocked and was trying to palm them off at a slight reduction. Consumers can sense this very often and they decline to buy. They are more interested in seasonal goods judiciously described and at a fair price."

"Gordon's Grocery is of the service type in one of the best locations on the main street in Kelowna. The store is an attractive one and caters to a good class of trade."

Sorrento are just coming into full bloom and the pink spray for scab control is about completed. At Kamloops and western points full bloom is past. In all parts of the district there is a fine show of bloom on nearly all kinds and varieties of tree fruits, and, provided that the set is normal, there should be a considerable increase in tonnage over last year.

Cane fruits are in fine condition generally, and although slight winter injury is showing on Cuthbert raspberries and loganberries, the Newman raspberries are in fine shape. Strawberries have come through the winter well and are making good growth. Bush fruits are also in excellent condition and the crop should be well up to average.

Tomatoes are being planted heavily in the irrigated sections and the acreage will show an increase over last year. Fall sown grains have come through well and are making good growth. There are 270 acres of peas in the Salmon River valley this year.

Armstrong, Vernon, Oryama, Okanagan Centre, Winfield

As reported May 20th: Our past winter conditions were fairly normal, with fairly consistent temperatures from mid-December to mid-March. The snowfall was much above normal, but the moisture content was not high. With little frost in the ground, there was not loss of moisture by run-off. On irrigated lands moisture content of the soil appears to be very good, but on non-irrigated soils moisture conditions are none too good.

The opening of the spring season was possibly a week later than the previous year, but conditions since the opening have been much more backward. Continuous dry, cool weather, with several frosts, has had the effect of retarding growth of all crops. This is greatly in contrast to the opening of 1936, when continued favourable weather from the opening of spring speeded all growth.

The tree fruit blossom period is approximately eight days behind the season of 1936, causing all varieties to bunch up fairly closely in their blossoming time. In the stone fruits, cherries, peaches, plums and apricots have all carried a medium to heavy blossom. The crabapple blossom is also heavier than last season, pear blossom about the same, and all apple varieties with the exception of Wealthy and Jonathan, much heavier than 1936. Many trees are still showing the effects of the severe winter injury of two years ago, and with this weakness and the unfavourable weather during the blossoming period it is impossible to anticipate what the set may be.

In the small fruits, strawberries have come through the winter in excellent condition and show promise of good blossom, but yields will be governed by frost conditions over the next two weeks. In the raspberry plantations there is now apparent more winter injury to the canes than was observed when the plantations first came out of the winter. The loss, however, will not be serious and the general prospects are for a normal crop. The black currant plantations are looking in very good condition at the present time.

In the vegetable crops weather conditions have retarded the seeding and planting of the acreage and have also been unfavourable for decent germination. Although too early to estimate acreages, it would appear that most of the vegetables will be somewhat in line with previous seasons as far as the acreage planted is concerned, the only exception being in tomatoes, which at present promise to be somewhat heavier than for the last two or three seasons. In this vegetable there has been a fairly serious loss in plants by freezing, but with no further adversities there should be sufficient plants for the anticipated acreage. We are, however, not past the danger period for frost injury. The acreage of onions for market purposes is about normal, but the acreage for seed production for this vegetable will be slightly increased. Rhubarb is now moving out in quantity, and the asparagus cut, although retarded by weather conditions, is now in full swing, with the majority of the crop of excellent quality going to the canneries.

In general farming, the stands of fall wheat are in excellent condition and making good growth, and the spring sown grains appear to be getting away to a good start. The cool weather has been somewhat favourable for these crops. Alfalfa fields and hay and pasture lands have made quite slow growth, but have shown considerable improvement over the past week. A good steady warm rain, followed by bright or warm weather, would bring all crops along at a rapid rate.

Kelowna

As reported May 20th: The spring has been cold and backward. The peak of bloom is just over—about a week later than last year. All fruits show excellent bloom and promise a good crop. There was a frost on the morning of May 6th, but only a very slight damage was done to the district generally. Moisture conditions are excellent and with warmer weather rapid growth should result.

Small fruits all indicate a heavier crop than last year.

Trees, generally, came through the winter in good condition, but some of them are showing effects of previous injury. Jonathans, Newtons and Romes show the most damage. It is probable that tree weakness in many instances may influence the set. Cherry trees show considerable damage from previous injury also.

Onions are growing well and tomatoes are being planted in the field. Asparagus is moving to the canneries. Growth has been backward with asparagus and other crops owing to cool weather.

More dormant spraying was done this spring than for many years. The Codling Moth wintered better than in 1935 and 1936. Thorough spraying will be required to keep it under control. Several new spray machines came into the district and growers are gradually becoming better equipped to do good spraying.

Westbank, Peachland, Summerland, Naramata

As reported May 20th: After a fairly hard long winter, spring weather conditions have been cold and backward. Even at the present date no real warm weather has occurred. The season is about ten days behind that of last year. Apples will be at the peak of their blossom in about another week. There have been some splendid rains in the past two weeks, and owing to the cool weather the soil moisture has been well maintained; irrigation is only being applied sparingly.

Fruit trees in general show a healthy appearance and from blossom indications the prospects for a normal crop are apparent. Cherries on the whole had a heavy bloom, but there are many weak trees. Apricots will have a fair crop this year. Peaches will be heavy. Pears are showing up as well as last year, and apples are showing heavy bloom.

Frosts two weeks ago did considerable damage to the early set tomato plants in some sections. The tree fruits escaped this frost. Field crops in general are making very slow growth.

There has been more dormant spraying done this spring than usual, also later sprayings for the control of Leaf Roller and Bud worms.

Penticton, Kaleden, Oliver, Osoyoos, Keremeos

As reported May 19th: The season so far has been very backward and cold, and at present is about ten days behind last year. The blossom on all varieties of tree-fruits has been exceptionally heavy. Whether the dull, cold weather is going to affect pollination or not, remains to be seen. At the present time everything points to a good crop.

Orchards on the whole are looking well, although there is some winter injury showing up. Acreage of ground crops in the Oliver and Osoyoos districts will be about the same as last year. Ground crops are planted now and are needing warmer weather to bring them along.

The Frost Warning Service, as provided by the Department of Marine and Transport, has again proved of great value to the districts covered.

Kootenay And Arrow Lakes

As reported May 17th: The past winter was quite severe, January being a very cold month. The snowfall was below the average, but, as most of it came in a short period and when the weather was cold, there was a very heavy covering while it lasted. Spring has been backward and all growth showed up so that at the present time the season is about two weeks later than an average year, and about a week later than last year. Heavy rains occurred during the month of April and at the present time the moisture condition is fair to good. Warmer weather is much needed for all fruit crops as well as for vegetable and field crops.

KELOWNA SEA CADET CORPS

"Grenville" Company 1358

Orders for Parade:

The Ships' Company will parade on Friday, May 28, at 7.30 p.m. and on Tuesday, June 1, at 7.30 p.m. Both these parades are compulsory. Quartermaster: Cadet Drinkwater. Sidekick: Cadet Jennings.

Last Tuesday's parade was occupied chiefly by preparation for the annual inspection which will take place on Thursday, June 3. The Corps was drilled in physical training and squad drill and a special squad was put through a stiff turn of cutlass drill. Instruction was given in first aid, signalling, knots and compass. A much interested visitor was the Rev. Mr. Gibbs, who spoke to the Cadets, after watching the various drills and instruction classes.

Mr. Chairman brought glad tidings to thirteen Cadets, when he announced that the crew which had towed the Sons of England float in the Coronation celebrations would be treated to a picture show the following evening.

Thursday, June 3, Grenvilles, is the big night! Will you all spend as much time as possible per day practising a little of each of these: squad drill, cutlass drill, P.T., knots and compass? Those who are in the special classes should get together and practise first aid or signalling.

have come through the winter in good condition and are now putting on good growth. The season is late, in fact very late, and very few, if any, blossoms are showing on the plants at this time. This means that there will be very little movement of this crop before the 25th of June. However, conditions at this time are quite favourable for a crop 20 per cent larger than

CAPT. C. R. BULL

To the Electors of South Okanagan

You have watched Capt. Bull "under fire" in the difficult situations which accompany a political campaign.

You have been impressed with the fact that under these circumstances he has retained his sense of values.

You realize that the "common sense" attitude taken by Capt. Bull throughout the campaign stamps him as the man best capable of representing ALL electors of South Okanagan.

This publicity is closed with a tribute paid to Capt. Bull, by Major M. V. McGuire when retiring as President of the Association of British Columbia Irrigation Districts. Major McGuire stated that:

"The Association was greatly indebted to Capt. Bull for his untiring work on irrigation matters during his term as Vice-President, and should he be returned as Member there would be no question but that the cause of the Irrigation Districts would be in excellent hands."

Vote for Capt. Bull

- 1.—Because he will work with determination to better the conditions of Labour and Business.
- 2.—Because he is a Farmer.
- 3.—Because he resides in the South Okanagan Constituency.
- 4.—Because he is a supporter of the marketing policies of the Hon. Dr. K. C. MacDonald.

One of the most unique Scout week-end "camps" held in Canada, if not in the Scouting world, is that enjoyed each Saturday afternoon at the Sick Children's Hospital, Thistletown, Ont. It is a "camp" held in their ward by the crippled and bedridden boys of the Robert Louis Stevenson Scout Troop, all in full Scout uniform, gathered round their troop Union Jack flying from its indoor flagstaff. The "camp" is opened with a ceremonial raising of the flag, and at the conclusion of the afternoon's programme of games, stories and the passing of Scout tests, the flag is duly lowered.

The bride was very much concerned at seeing twin beds in their bridal suite. "What's the matter, dearest?" asked the attentive groom. "Why I thought certainly that we were going to get a room all to ourselves."

last year, which means about a normal crop for the district. Raspberry canes are showing considerable winter injury in most sections of the district, especially in the Cuthbert variety. In some plantations other varieties show slight injury, but not to the extent of the Cuthbert variety. The crop will be below normal but larger than last year.

Cherries were in full bloom from May 5th to 15th, just about a week later than last year. The bloom in most sections was quite heavy. No frost damage has been reported, but the weather has not been very favourable for insect life, so the set may not be any too good. With favourable weather throughout the season, the crop should equal the 1936 production. The trees on the whole have wintered well, but there is still considerable damage in the trees from the 1935-36 winter conditions.

Pears and plums are showing a heavy bloom in most sections and the crop should be much better than last year as to quantity. Early blooming varieties of apples such as McIntosh, Gravenstein, Wagener and Westbury are now coming into full bloom on the Lower Arrow Lakes, Robson, Brilliant and Bonington areas, and a few days later in other sections. This is about a week later than last year. Spraying has been quite general throughout the district for the first (pre-blossom) apple scab control spray. Indications on the bloom point to a heavier crop on most varieties than last year. Northern Spys will be lighter, while Jonathan, McIntosh Red, Cox's Orange and Wagener will be much heavier. Taking all sections into consideration, the trees on the whole are in fair to good condition as to vigour and the crop should run about 25,000 boxes more than last year, which is about 30 per cent increase.

The planting of early vegetables of all kinds has been completed, and many are well up, but warmer weather is needed for the best growth. The main crop of potatoes is now being planted, and it is expected that about the same acreage will be put in. The growth in field crops has been only fair, but fall sown grain and all hay crops have come through the winter in good condition. Alfalfa is coming on in good shape but could do with warmer weather.

Grand Forks

As reported May 18th: The fall and winter of 1936-37 was the driest on record, with a comparatively mild winter until well into January, when a long, severe cold spell was experienced. Snowfall was fairly heavy and owing to the dry fall the snow all melted into the soil with the spring thaw. The spring has been exceedingly late, probably three weeks later than usual, with considerable rainfall. Soil moisture conditions are excellent at the present time and, with some warm weather, growth will be rapid.

Fruit trees and small fruits generally have come through the winter in good shape, and prospects are good at present for a heavy crop of all tree fruits and small fruits.

Planting of all vegetable crops is about completed except for the late potato crop of Nette Gens. Indications are that there will be a reduction in the acreage of potatoes planted this season. Asparagus has been moving to market for some time, with prices a little better than last year. The asparagus acreage is increasing gradually in the valley.

Seeding of all crops has been late, but is about completed now. Owing to the extremely dry fall, most of the fall wheat acreage was a loss as the grain failed to germinate, and many fields have had to be re-seeded to spring grain this spring.

Owing to the heavy loss from Codling Moth last year, the growers are making plans for a comprehensive spraying programme this year, and early sprays and dormant sprays have all been applied for other pests as well.

Creston

As reported May 17th: The winter of 1936-37 was remarkable for the lack of moisture in the early months and the steady intense cold for several weeks during its later months. Nights have been cold and the season backward. Spring rains have been light but frequent, and surface moisture conditions are good at present and the soil is readily worked into a good tilth. Winter injury was light, only in exposed areas where the snow was blown off was any appreciable damage done as yet known.

Raspberry patches in many cases show tip injury but only a few canes are visibly affected. Strawberries are just now in bloom, so it will be the middle of June before any berries will be on the market. Acreage, if anything, is a little less than last year, but the yield per acre should be better, so a slight increase in tonnage can be expected. Heavy planting occurred this spring, chiefly British Sovereign.

Cherries, although a week late, blossomed freely, and came through the winter and spring without any apparent bud injury. Lamberts especially look very promising. Nurseries were unable to supply full orders of young stock, as replanting orders have been very heavy. Pears are now in full bloom, and the early varieties are making excellent showing. Growers reported this spring, while pruning, that the previous winter injury showed up more pronounced, and many limbs that last year bore fruit had to be removed owing to cambium injury. Apples are now in the pink stage. Spraying for scab is much in evidence, and more growers are using arsenical poisons than formally to control biting insects.

Asparagus has been on the market for some time. Greenhouses have been supplying the early vegetables. In the gardens the early sowing of seeds are just making their appearance.

Spring cut flowers are moving out freely again. The early narcissi are all over; the tulips are now on but

ELLISON GIVES GRIT CANDIDATE GOOD RECEPTION

After Public Meeting On Friday Night, Several Pledge Themselves To Aid In Campaign

A meeting was held on Friday night, May 21, in support of the Liberal candidate, Captain C. R. Bull. Mr. J. J. Conroy, acting as chairman, introduced Mr. Roy Hunt and Mr. J. E. Reekie of Kelowna, who spoke ably in favour of Captain Bull and the Pattullo government. The popular candidate arrived later in the evening, after addressing a meeting at Okanagan Centre, and was enthusiastically hailed by the assembled voters. After a few words of introduction by the chairman, Captain Bull spoke for about forty-five minutes, and his unassuming, sincere manner, and his convincing, convincing statements evidently made a very favourable impression on the audience. At the close of Captain Bull's address, Mr. Conroy requested that any of those present who felt they would like to aid in the Liberal campaign, both before and on the day of the election, would declare themselves. Several expressed their willingness to assist under the Liberal banner and an informal discussion of plans followed.

We are pleased to welcome back to the district, Mrs. Hazel Heron and Joan and Mrs. Heron's mother, Mrs. Trick, who arrived from Calgary last week. For the remainder of the school term they will stay in Miss Vernier's cottage so that Joan can attend Ellison school. Miss Vernier will remain until August in the East, where she is very much enjoying her visit with friends and relatives in various towns and cities. We are glad to hear that her health is much improved by the change.

Mr. Wm. Bulman returned on Monday from a week-end motor trip across the border in the company of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bulman and Miss Marjory Bulman.

Miss Agnes Conroy spent the week-end at her home here.

Mr. Robert Booth went down to Vancouver on Friday's C.N.R. train.

The warmer weather of the last few days has apparently filled the mosquitoes with life and energy and it looks as though mosquito netting, veils and the perfume of oil of citronella would be all the rage again this summer.

Unfortunately were too late for Mother's Day demands. In the lighter soils some winter injury occurred in the beds.

PRETTY WEDDING IN WINFIELD UNITED CHURCH

Miss Holly Madeline Berry Becomes Bride Of Mr. Luke Roberge, Both Of Winfield

WINFIELD, May 27. A pretty wedding was solemnized in the Winfield United Church on Monday, May 24th, at noon, when Holly Madeline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Berry, became the bride of Mr. Luke Roberge, both of this district. Rev. G. R. Tench performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked charming in a white satin gown, with white picture hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations and fern. She was attended by Miss Alice Draper as bridesmaid, who was attired in a pale green gown with white accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and fern. The groom was supported by Mr. Ralph Berry, Jr., brother of the bride.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Mrs. J. Arnold played the wedding march and during the signing of the register the congregation sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden".

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Hall, after which the happy couple left by motor for the South. The bride had chosen a lovely yellow suit for travelling. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Roberge will make their home in this district.

St. Margaret's Anglican Guild held a social afternoon on Thursday, May 20th, at the home of Mrs. R. Cheesman, Okanagan Centre. A number of Winfield ladies were present.

The Winfield United Ladies' Aid held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. C. L. Gunn on Thursday, May 20th, with a good attendance. During business discussions, it was decided not to hold their annual lawn social this year. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Geo. Elliot.

In such projects for the betterment of the city somebody always seemed to be getting away with some of the money, and it made one wonder why these same business men could not make a success of community enterprises when they are successful in their own business, he said. The rewards of efforts have fallen too easily to Vancouver, he feared, and the community has not had to "scratch gravel."

MARRIAGES

Hagen—Venables

In the presence of a few friends, a quiet wedding was solemnized at the United Church parsonage on Sunday afternoon, May 23, when Olive Violet Maude Venables, of Kelowna, became the bride of Mr. Bernt Evensen Hagen, of Penticton. Rev. A. McMillan, of Rutland, officiated.

Mrs. Madelyn Schultz acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. Frank Venables, of Oliver, a brother of the bride, was best man.

The bride and groom were recipients of many useful gifts, which were presented at a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Willis after the ceremony.

The couple left for a short honeymoon, and intend to make their future home in South Slokan.

Martin—Thomson

A wedding of interest to many Kelowna citizens was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Reif, 3154 Richmond Road, Vancouver, on Saturday, May 22, when Helen Mary, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Thomson, of Kelowna, became the bride of Charles G. Martin, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Martin, of James Island, B.C.

Rev. Dr. W. W. McPherson, of First United Church, Kelowna, officiated at the ceremony.

SIDE ROAD WORK IS BEING PUSHED ALONG

Considerable work on side roads is being undertaken in this district, under supervision of Mr. Bruce Burch, road foreman. Rock crushing equipment has been established in Mission Creek, near the bridge, and 17 farmers with their teams and four labourers, are being employed.

Not only is the Mission Creek bed being cleared of rocks, but the crushed rock is being utilized for road surfacing. Six inches of gravel have been placed from the Mission Creek School to the Vernon road, while other roads from Okanagan Mission to Kelowna are being treated with surfacing.

Mr. Burch states that a protective railing along the fill leading up to the new bridge over the railway track on the Vernon-Kelowna highway, will be placed shortly. A number of motorists have complained that with the steep drop created by this fill, a railing is essential for safety.

The meeting did not discuss the question, evidently believing that no further action should be taken.

PEACHLAND HEARS CONSERVATIVE AND GRIT CAMPAIGNERS

Speakers Include Capt. C. R. Bull, R. B. Staples, Dr. W. J. Knox, T. G. Norris and H. K. Bray

PEACHLAND, May 27. Captain C. R. Bull made his first appearance before a Peachland audience on Tuesday evening, while Mr. R. B. Staples and Dr. Knox also spoke in his behalf.

Introduced briefly by the President of the local Liberal Association, Mr. A. Ferguson, Mr. Staples had the highest praise for the fruit last year and with the prospect of the largest crop ever grown in the valley there was no reason why good prices should not be obtained this year, he considered. This could not be done without a reasonable measure of market control and for this we were dependent on the Minister of Agriculture, whose whole thought was wrapped up in the fruit industry. Captain Bull was a farmer and a fruit grower and he could not speak too highly of him.

Dr. Knox mentioned familiar faces in the audience which he missed, and said that, as there was a change in communities, so there was a change in the way people voted.

"When the people get in bad trouble they always turn to the Liberals," he declared. It was the independent vote that had turned out the Tolmie government. In provincial matters there was never any need of Liberal and Conservative. "Liberal means low tariff and Conservative high tariff, and such distinctions could not be made provincially," he said.

He praised Dr. Harris for his work in the interests of the fruit grower for the last four years, and affirmed his confidence in Captain Bull. He spoke in glowing terms of the Pattullo government and honoured the government for withholding the health insurance bill when it was not approved. He explained it because there was no provision made for indigents.

Captain Bull stated that he had two reasons for appearing as a candidate. First, that he was honoured in representing the Liberal party because he considered it the best government he had secondly, that he was anxious to be of service. He considered the present B.C. cabinet unequalled by any previous B.C. cabinet. He refused to make any election promises, styling them utterly worthless. The voters must be satisfied with the elected candidate without his best.

The ultimate objective of every vote was economic security, and for the first time in the history of the world he considered this possible. He believed that people could live in a system under the old capitalist system in a new economy of abundance. During this transition period it was very important that there be no experiments in Socialism.

Captain Bull was unprepared to deal with the activities of the government in the past, but he could deal with the present. He said that the author of the Marketing Act which the people had given the government, while during the King regime they were up and down, so that deputations had to be sent to Ottawa continually.

Relief unemployment was not a political issue, Mr. Norris continued. It was a world-wide problem and required the co-operation of all parties for its solution.

He touched briefly on health insurance, stating that nobody questioned the need of proper health insurance, but, because it was a provincial scheme, the biggest taxpayers, the railways, banks, etc., because their operations were inter-provincial, way, but emptied. The farmer had to pay for himself and the man who was unemployed lost and the man who was not considered for a vote could be taken when the taxpayers did not know what they were voting on, another instance that the government does not know what it is doing.

"I stand before you today on my record," Mr. Norris concluded. "If I thought that the Conservative party did not stand for the benefit of the people as a whole, I would not be their candidate."

Questions were asked for by the chairman, Mr. B. F. Gummow, and these were answered briefly.

A most enjoyable evening was spent at an old-time concert and dance held on Friday evening, May 21, in the Athletic Hall. Games and contests with musical numbers interspersed gave much amusement in the earlier part of the evening, while old time dances followed off the entertainment, with the dancing kept up till an early hour. The affair was convened by Mrs. C. Duquemin and Mrs. Munro in aid of the Fall Fair fund of the Women's Institute, with Mrs. Munro acting as chairman during the entertainment.

The musical items were varied with a solo by Mr. C. C. Inglis, solos by Mr. C. F. Bradley, a duet by Miss Muriel Redstone and Miss Edith Duquemin. Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. W. E. that government. Referring to Dr. Harris' pre-election speeches in which he had stated that he could vote as he pleased, he asked if any one had heard of Dr. Harris speaking up at the party caucus, and he had plenty of opportunity to say "I don't agree." "Duff Pattullo considers that he can take Captain Bull into camp the way he did Mr. Harris," he stated.

Denouncing Pattullo's cry of "Provincial rights," he said that now was the time when efforts should be made to get the provinces closer together. "Dr. Knox told you the other night," he said, "that when the people were in bad trouble they always turned to the Liberals. What happened some years ago when the municipalities turned to Pattullo in connection with irrigation affairs. He said, 'you people tighten up your belts.' A voice from the audience continued, 'and you'll get relief only over my dead body.'"

In praising the Conservative policy for agriculturists, he referred to the advantages of tariff protection as shown by the dump duties being put on and kept on during the Bennett administration, while during the King regime they were up and down, so that deputations had to be sent to Ottawa continually.

BOY SCOUT COLUMN

1st Kelowna Troop

Troop Firm Self Last!

Orders for the week commencing Thursday May 27, 1937:
Duties: Orderly patrol for the week, Owls, P.L. T. Brydon; next for duty, Chorus.

Rallies: The Troop will rally at the Scout Hall on Friday, June 4th, at 7.15 p.m.
The Scout staves arrived on Tuesday, so all Scouts who have paid their 50c may collect their staves any time they wish.

We were very pleased to hear that the Officers, under P.L. Eugene Ryan, held a patrol bicycle hike up over the new Naramata road and the canyon through which the road must go. They must have had a pretty good time as they did not get home until 4 o'clock.

We have been asked by Old Scout, Pi Campbell to assist in the Rutland Scout Display, which is being held on Friday, the 4th, but we have not decided just what item to put on for them, although they seemed to think they would like to have the German Band.

P.L.s, don't forget to get a list of the Scouts who wish to go to camp this year. We would like to know definitely by the middle of next month how many of the boys want to go. The rate this year will be $2.50 for ten days, and all fees should be paid before leaving for camp.

P.L. Dave Chapman sold the most tickets this year with a total of 50. Gordon Shugg was second with 22, and Eugene Ryan was third with 19. The last two winners cannot be determined until the rest of the ticket money comes in.

The idea of the change of meeting nights from Tuesday to Friday is to allow the boys to come without the bother of doing homework before they come or after they leave the rally. The meetings will be more in the form of physical instruction from now on until camp, with as much outdoor work as is possible.

Scouting Elsewhere

A "Scout Group in Every Parish," the aim of the London, England, Catholic Scout Guild, was the keynote of a youth conference at Westminster Roman Catholic Cathedral.

Twenty-three physically handicapped, or "Post" Scouts, will represent the British Isles in the Handicapped Scouts sub-camp of the World Scout Jamboree in Holland this summer. The party will comprise mental defectives, crippled, blind, and deaf and dumb. The blind Scouts comprise a party from Worcester College.

A Boy Scout competition one item of which calls for an exchange of letters between each member of each patrol of the 5th Hamilton Troop and each member of a Boy Scout patrol in France is a contest being carried on by that Hamilton troop. The attractive prize is two weeks at camp this summer. Each patrol numbers eight boys.

1ST RUTLAND TROOP

"Do a good turn daily!"
Edited by "Kangaroo"

Orders for the week ending May 27th, 1937:

The Troop will parade in the Community Hall on Saturday at 7.30 sharp for a full rehearsal of the concert. Full uniform to be worn.

Twenty-six Scouts attended last week's meeting, practice for the concert taking up most of the time. The concert is to be on Friday, June 4th.

Mr. D. H. Campbell presented badges to the following Scouts: Troop Leader Maurice Soames, Marksman and Ambulance; Scouts W. Granger, Joe Schneider, and Aubrey Wanless. Tenderfoot Badge.

The Patrol Competition standing now is:

Patrol	Points
Kangaroos	830
Foxes	571
Seals	567
Beavers	559

The week-end camp planned for Saturday and Sunday last was cancelled on account of threatening weather. As the weather turned out, however, it is too bad that the camp was not held as planned. The camp will be held at Gallagher's Canyon on June 12th and 13th next.

Troop Leader Soames passed his Pathfinder's badge before Mr. E. Mugford last week. This completes the tests for his King's Scout badge. Congratulations! The Troop now has two King's Scouts, the highest attainable Scout rank.

Rutland High School pupils achieved considerable success in the essay contest conducted by the Kiwanis Club of Vancouver. The essay title was "The Advantages of Democratic Government in Canada" and entries were received from school children all over the province. Prizes of $1.00, accompanied by certificates of merit, were won by Athena Cross, Nancy Reid and Audrey Gibson. Certificates of merit were also received by Enid Eutin, Phyllis Dilworth, Robert Hardie, Mavis Charlton and Grace McMurray.

Political meetings are coming thick and fast these days, and the Community Hall was the scene of another Conservative meeting on Tuesday evening, May 25th. Mr. T. G. Norris, the Conservative candidate, received an

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

FORMER MINISTER OF
FINANCE ENTERS FRAY

Victoria, B.C., May 21, 1937.

To the Editor,

The Kelowna Courier.

I have been amazed at the effrontery of statements made by our Liberal friends in their election advertisements under the headings of "WE MUST NOT LOSE HART" and "LEST WE FORGET."

Assertion No. 1
The Tolmie Government had completely destroyed the financial credit of the Province.

Fact No. 1.

The Tolmie Government always had the confidence of its bank and of eastern financial houses. It floated a loan of $3,000,000 two months before leaving office on better terms than any other Western Government.

Assertion No. 2
The bank refused to extend credit for payment.

Fact No. 2
The bank never at any time refused to cash cheques or to extend credit to the Tolmie Government.

Assertion No. 3
The Tolmie Government had issued cheques to the amount of $1,099,509 without funds to cover.

Fact No. 3
The Tolmie Government never issued cheques without the certainty of their being paid when presented.

The Tolmie Government during the years 1931, 1932 and 1933 had to finance this Province through the worst depression the world has known for centuries, when even Great Britain went off the gold standard. The Government always held the confidence of the financial houses.

The Tolmie Government in three years reduced expenditures over $9,000,000.

The Pattullo Government has increased expenditures within three years $9,000,000.

Sinking Funds were on April 1st, 1937, short $12,000,000.

THESE ARE FACTS, NOT FIGMENTS OF IMAGINATION.

Yours truly,

J. W. JONES.

Former Minister of Finance.

CORONATION MEMORIES

Kelowna, May 22, 1937.

To the Editor,

Kelowna Courier.

Dear Editor:

It would hardly do would it, Mr. Editor, to let the Kelowna celebration of King George VI pass into history without some comment from some of the district laymen as to how they enjoyed the Kelowna celebration. The writer was there to witness the parade from the Central Store to the corner of the First United Church down Bernard Avenue to the Athletic Park, where the proclamation was read by His Worship O. L. Jones, Mayor of Kelowna. I would say it was an excellent parade, well got up, and thanks should be given to those who worked so hard to make it such a real success. I had hoped to see the City Band and the Boys' Band in massed formation play some good Coronation music leading this parade; it would have added to the solemnity of the occasion. The Pipe Band made a very fine showing with that elastic step of theirs and to hear that famous song "The Campbells are Coming. Hooray! Hooray!" This is an organization which Kelowna might justly be proud of, and their music was inspiring indeed. The next and not in the least was the World War veterans, led by Commander Wm. Shugg, who presented a very creditable appearance. They had fine marching order. It called to my memory a parade of about 16,000 veterans of the American Civil War as they marched down Hennepin Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn., past the intersection of Washington Avenue, where the judges stood. There were Confederate men conspicuous by their hats and banners. They represented both sides who fought for a common cause, or shall I say, a democracy. The curb was roped off and ambulance units were thickly stationed along the line of march to care for those who fell out in the heat.

The Knights of Columbus made a good showing, but, had they presented a different subject, it would have been still better, for a student of English history could have had no trouble to read between the lines what that all meant. Of course, I am only offering constructive criticism.

I was also at the ball grounds, and many good things were there, but I no doubt missed the best part of the festive occasion, that of the evening celebration. My youngest son was there and he stated that the community singing which I so much enjoy was well handled by G. S. McKenzie and others.

And now a few words to the more sober and thoughtful minded. As I read in ancient history of the coronation of kings who now lie sleeping, particularly of Solomon, I think of the grand event of all the ages, when some of us who have been present at the crowning of our present monarch will witness the crowning ceremony of God's, only begotten Son. When all the redeemed whom Christ died to save shall crown Him Lord of Lords and King of Kings, earthly vision fades as we try to penetrate this. When the festivities in the crowning of Solomon, King of Israel and Judah, were ended it is said that he sent them to their homes happy indeed.

I believe we had a great time in Kelowna that past week, and now I will quote a line of the first verse of that grand old Welsh hymn:

"All hail the power of Jesus' name! Let angels prostrate fall: Bring forth the royal diadem, To crown Him Lord of all."

Yours truly,

WESLEY SEARLE.

Importance of Monarchy In British History Told To Rotary Club Members

In keeping with the day, Mr. O. St. P. Aitkens entertained members of the Rotary Club of Kelowna with a short essay on the British monarchy, on Tuesday, May 11, at the regular luncheon gathering of the Club. He prefaced his remarks with some amusing anecdotes, including one which concerned the right of the Lord Great Chamberlain to guard the Sovereign, the night before the ceremony, and to help him dress, as a reward, he was given the King's clothing, worn on the day of the Coronation. This ceremony was accepted until the first Scottish King came to the throne, and he objected to such a procedure. Queen Anne, who raised strenuous objection to the Lord Great Chamberlain assisting her to dress, and so he was paid in coin of the realm instead.

Following is a full report of Mr. Aitkens' essay on the British monarchy and its importance in British history:

On this great occasion it is worthwhile to consider the nature of the influence that may be exerted upon his own generation or posterity by the personal character and life of a reigning Sovereign.

The British Monarchs of our own period have entered upon a moral as well as a political heritage. Their conception of Kingship has been in some degree the product of ancestral forces. Sovereignty and its development during the centuries seems essential to an historical and logical understanding of the position filled by British Monarchy at the present time.

The personal factor in National Royalty has been of importance under all periods of British Sovereignty. That general proposition could not be established or the debt of later Sovereigns as well as of the Nation itself to the earlier occupants of the Throne be correctly estimated without some glance at the personalities who were the British Crown during the earlier periods of modern history.

The elective character of the Early English Monarchy is seen in the steps by which Alfred the Great mounted the Throne of his grandfather Egbert. Egbert, a west Saxon Prince, by overcoming the Mercians and Northumbrians brought the whole of England under his rule. Egbert was thus the titular founder of the English Monarchy.

His son and successor, Ethelwulf, convinced the Witanagemot, which was the great National Council of England in Anglo Saxon times, not only to ratify the consolidation of several kingdoms into one, but to so direct the succession from the strict hereditary line that the Crown might come to Ethelwulf's youngest son Alfred who from his youth had shown marked fitness for the work of Sovereignty.

King Alfred was the first moral founder and pattern for all time of English Kingship.

Generally two movements of an opposite kind may be seen in the evolution of the pre-Norman Kingship. One of these is the concentration of the scattered and independent Kingdoms under a single supreme ruler. The other is the encouragement given to existing varieties of municipal government.

Eldred in his short reign, 946-955, added the style of King of the Anglo Saxons the title of the Caesar of Britain.

Edwy succeeded him, but refused to attend the irksome coronation ceremonies. Archbishop Dunstan, probably the greatest of the earliest ecclesiastical statesmen, was entrusted by the Witan, not of the Royal family, to secure Edwy's presence at the Coronation ceremonial. Thus already the State had in some large measure control over the Sovereign.

During the Danish ascendancy at the time of Canute and Edmund the prerogative of the Crown is exercised in subjection to the control of the Witanagemot. During the Norman period this great Court or Council advised the Crown, its consent was preliminary to the beginning of every new reign, it regulated the succession.

In all legal documents William the First (The Conqueror) ruled not by right of conquest but as the successor of Edward the Confessor, thus nearly one thousand years ago a truly democratic monarchy was being established in England, more democratic even in those early pages of British history than the monarchies of Russia and Germany even in the Twentieth Century. The National consent which sanctioned the Royal sequence in the Saxons was equally indispensable to the establishment of the Norman Conqueror. William the Conqueror summoned all freemen to his Court at Salisbury. Here they heard the duties attached to their properties as returned in the Domesday Book. They then took the Oath of Allegiance immediately to the King.

Richard Coeur de Lion brought England and Wales together by military conquest. This military rule lasted a hundred years.

In all seasons of popular discontent with English Royalty the first complaint is not with the English Throne but with some power behind the English Throne. During the eventful period of Simon de Montfort's leadership of the barons against Henry II, the charge against Henry is not that he himself violates the oath of fidelity to his people but that his foreign courtiers and kinsmen occupy places which should be filled by Englishborn subjects. Similar risings occur in later periods of English history for similar reasons.

By the middle of the Fourteenth Century the House of Commons had become the real ruler of the realm. The Tudor princes reigned absolutely but they recognized national approval as a necessary condition of their power.

Eminently modern too even under the first of the Kings of the House of Lancaster is the parliamentary tolerance towards all religious matters under Henry IV.

Of Henry V. Shakespeare says "That King was without respect of persons, anxious to do right for small as well as great."

With Henry VII, a man of physical courage and soldierly skill, modern history begins and in home politics, in commerce, in administration and foreign affairs are introduced methods leading up to those which statesmen still employed in the 18th Century.

Henry VIII planned his own campaigns most ably and was the first monarch to start in English diplomacy the tradition of French hostility and Austrian friendship. This principle remained in force during the whole period until the time of Palmerston. It employed the diplomatic doctrine of the balance of power once deemed vital to English interests in Europe, and that same diplomatic doctrine is in force today only with the friendship of Britain transferred to France, who for all these centuries had been the traditional enemy of Britain.

Under Elizabeth we see the rise of England as a great nation and the signs of the seeds of Empire in the growth of Naval Power under Sir Francis Drake; an age of chivalry and literature, with great men of noble thought and mind. Sir Philip Sidney, William Shakespeare and others.

Under William of Orange who came to the throne in 1689, the freedom of the Press was first established and what is known as the Modern Constitution of Britain was in full process of establishment. During all his days he was the life and soul of all European alliances against Louis XIV. of France. His wife, Mary, among all women of her time noticeable for her noble countenance and dignified carriage, rallied around her a national feeling of loyalty to the Throne which her husband could never have gained, and enabled him to carry through a successful and useful reign. In his reign also banking started in England, and the Bank of England was formed.

Hitherto this had been handled by the goldsmiths shops which were so many private banks. Sir John Houblon was its first Governor. William's experience of banking had been learned in his native Holland.

Milton had stated in a previous reign "Virtue herself will be benefited and strengthened by meeting her antagonists in a free and open encounter" when he predicted the advantages of the liberty of a free press which the statesmanship of William of Orange brought into fact in his reign, and so we see the relationship of philosophical intellect on practical statesmanship, the thought of the writer of poems and books working on the minds of Monarchs and men to the gradual enlightenment of the national affairs and the progress of democratic government.

Under William III, the foundations of Party, Politics or modern Parliamentary Government were laid and under Queen Anne that form of Parliamentary Government was destined year by year to increasingly acquire a national character. To Queen Anne more than any other sovereign the Church of England is indebted for its position, influence and much of its prosperity, and Queen Anne's time must therefore be referred to as that in which efforts were made to extend the Church of England in the Colonies and the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel and the Society for the Propagation of Christian Knowledge were formed.

Anne's reign was like Elizabeth's—a reign of brilliant literature and military victories.

George I. was a poor King, and George II. was little better.

George III. spread among his people a reverence for goodness and piety. He was a great and patriotic King. He was known among his humble neighbours as "Farmer George". Windsor Forest was the home of the Gypsies at this time, the King having given orders that if they did not abuse his kindness they were not to be driven off. The King, according to his custom, was walking alone among the Windsor thickets. Presently he came upon a Gypsy child emaciated with sickness and hunger, weeping bitterly by the side of her dead mother. The King quietly entered the tent, took the stone cold hands of the child in his own, saw that she was provided with food and clothing, then in simple words said to her: "The Gypsy girl he himself loved and the Gypsy girl he himself loved and the Gypsy girl he himself loved."

The great Wilberforce began his campaign against slavery in 1787, and in 1807 secured the support of Parliament towards its abolition.

The character of George IV. and William IV. was reflected in the drunkenness, gambling, etc., which became common in society during their reigns.

The Empire began to grow by leaps and bounds under George III., the Patriot King. Quebec surrendered to Wolfe in 1759. The Victory of Plassey in 1757 added Bengal to the Crown. 1787, Victoria and New South Wales established. This progress carried on in 1795. Capetown capitulated and the start of the South African Dominion began.

This carried on under Queen Victoria. In 1869, New Zealand received full autonomy. In 1858, the Government of India was transferred from the East India Company to the Crown. 1874, Fiji became a Crown Colony. 1878, control of Cyprus acquired from Turkey. 1879, France and Great Britain assumed control of Egypt. 1887, Suez Canal Neutralized. 1897, British Central Africa became a Protectorate, and so on.

At the end of Victoria's reign Britain was a mighty Empire stretching over the whole world, an Empire standing for good rule, justice and tolerance.

King Edward VII. then completed the work of Empire building and cemented the friendship of France. George V. then faced the European complications and by his splendid example, good sense and kindly feeling for his subjects which entered into all phases of his life, kept up the courage of the Empire and enabled it to withstand the terrible conflict, which but for him might have smashed the Empire to pieces; by his noble example he held the loyalty and affection of all races under the British Flag. His death was a personal loss to every subject in the Empire.

Edward VIII. who had one magnificent work for the Empire as Prince of Wales, setting a splendid example of courage and fortitude in the Great War, of great ability and charm as we all know with deep sorrow failed as King, but he has the gratitude of all peoples of the Empire for the good work that he did.

King George VI. now ascends the throne and looking back sees a vast heritage of noble character, chivalry and solid kingship which has preceded him, centuries of loyalty and fidelity by former Kings to their subjects and their duty. The gallant King Arthur, Richard Coeur de Lion, The Black Prince, the statesmanship of Elizabeth, William III., Queen Anne, George III., Victoria, Edward VII., and George V., a vast but loyal Empire ready to stand by history.

He takes the throne under the difficult cloud of his brother's abdication, but he does not shirk his great task; he does his duty to his people as he did it in the Navy at Jutland, and in his simple service as a sailor, as he did it in the Air Force, and in his Empire tours.

In looking at his life we find that he has taken a real interest in the common people of the country, especially in his great work in the Duke of York's Boys Camps when he brought the boys of the British Public Schools and the boys of the slums and nevers classes together and himself lived games with them in their camps, giving happiness to thousands of underprivileged boys who otherwise would never have had the opportunity of the fresh air, sunshine and companionship of camp life.

And I think that our King is first of all a man, of simple taste and thought, who will strive with all his strength to keep the Empire safe, who will be loyal to his people and set them a noble example. He will see that all the ideals for which the Empire stands are upheld, and what is more, he will bring the various classes of society more closely together in thought and sympathy. There are already signs of the strengthening influence of his character being shown by a rise in the spiritual thought of the Empire. And he will promote a closer friendship with the United States of America.

He is fortunate in having as his Consort Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, daughter of the Earl of Strathmore of Scotland, a woman of noble character and of simple tastes, the ideal type to fit the high position of Queen, and he also has a charming family both of whom are dear to the people of the nation.

He comes at a difficult time with the anxious moments and crises during his reign, but we can feel assured that he will handle them with a calm mind and a courageous heart, and that, as in the past, great statesmen will be there to help him.

Today on his Coronation, our hearts, thoughts and wills will be with our King and his Consort. We hope they will have a long, happy and prosperous reign, and that the Empire will flourish under his guidance, and that he will have the help of loyal statesmen and the strong love and affection of all his subjects throughout his life, for without this he cannot possibly undertake this almost superhuman task.

And so I ask you to rise and sing
GOD SAVE THE KING!

"I Want to be Dictator"

Said PREMIER PATTULLO . . . Prince Rupert, May 17

Such is the declaration of the man who already experimented with Dictatorship by passing the un-British "Special Powers Act" . . . Such is the declaration of the man who would force the annexation of the Yukon!

Such is the declaration of the man who boasts of being a professional politician.

Dr. Patterson is not a professional politician, but brilliant and eminent in his profession, with a statesman-like grasp of B. C.'s social, economic and political problems founded upon sound principles and a life-long study.

He is a man of the highest qualities of heart, mind and character, possessing an understanding of and sympathy with the every-day problems of the masses, born of the intimate contact of a medical doctor with the poor and rich alike.

Listen to his able and statesman-like addresses. His life's work has been along broad humanitarian lines.

British Columbia needs such a man as Prime Minister.

Results of the findings of Government Engineer Hedley disclosed an abnormal condition—one which undoubtedly led to suspicion. Who insisted that this information also be suppressed, and WHY?

Government Assays were made from ore samples supplied by the Company after suspicions of responsible persons had been aroused.

THE PATTULLO GOVERNMENT:

Dictatorship under Special Powers Act. Betrayal of the public on "Work and Wages." Squandering public funds for party purposes. Iniquitous Pattullo Bridge deal at New Westminster.

Suppression of Richmond and other mining enquiry reports with huge losses to the public.

Health Insurance bungling.

The improvident Yukon annexation.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hall arrived on Tuesday from Toronto and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Burch. Mr. Hall is a brother of Mrs. Burch.

Returning from a trip over the week-end to Rossland, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Goldsmith dropped in on Tuesday morning at the home of their parents.

In spite of the fact that the vegetable growers met in Kelowna on the same night, there was a very good attendance at the meeting in Mission Creek Schoolhouse on Tuesday night, held by the Liberal Association. Mr. Felix Casorso occupied the chair. Captain Bull, Liberal candidate for this riding, was the principal speaker. He was supported by Mr. H. V. Craig, who touched on the Marketing Act. Although Captain Bull would make no definite promises, his listeners were impressed by his sincerity.

OKANAGAN CENTRE

OKANAGAN CENTRE, May 27.—Mrs. Geo. Gibson and Mrs. F. P. Wentworth were co-hostesses with Mrs. Cheesman last Thursday afternoon at a bridge party at the latter's home, in aid of the Guild of St. Margaret's Church, Woodside Parish. Beautiful weather tempted a good crowd and seven tables were filled. A delicious tea was followed by the presentation of a prize to the lucky lady, Mrs. Pixton.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Bernau are being congratulated on the birth of a second daughter the end of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Caesar had for visitors recently, Mr. and Mrs. Sexsmith, of Winnipeg, who stopped for a few days on their way home from the Coast cities.

Mrs. J. FOR HIGH CLASS JOB PRINTING GO TO THE COURIER

LIBERAL REGIME IS ATTACKED BY

is also not looking for charity, but for a job, and he referred to the 400 men who fought in Vancouver to get jobs shovelling snow. If there is one country which can give the fruits of men's labour it is B.C. and Canada, he believed, for God has given this country a wonderful heritage in natural resources.

Big Company Operations

Dr. Telford then branched into the political situation as he saw it. He had come more and more to the belief, after reviewing the Legislature, that the wrong people are in the asylums. When the C.C.F. gets into power there will be no slush funds from the big companies, he declared, or there will C.C.F. will be elected, or there will be chaos and starvation for everyone. He charged the B.C. Electric with watering its stock to the tune of $50,000,000. "I'd put a tax on that watered stock that would make it dry up in a hurry," he emphasized.

The Mackenzie King government increased the sales tax by two per cent, and boasted of an increase in payroll payments of $25,000,000. Dr. Telford pointed out that with the increased payrolls the cost of living has been increased from 91 to 111 units. Beef is more expensive in B.C. than in any other province except New Brunswick, while British Columbians pay more for butter and bread than any other province.

Flour in Montreal costs $7.07 per barrel, in Winnipeg it is $4.62, in Vancouver it is $3.05 and in Oliver $4.40. But John Chung Luck in Vancouver can buy flour for $4.98 if he is shipping to Hong Kong, and Dr. Telford objected to this spread. He urged the people to get out and fight for their rights. He explained at some length his stand before the Grain Commission and claimed that not protect the people's interests in the hearing. The railway combines, with their differences in freight rates, are soaking the people of this province and the government is making no effort to protect the people, he charged. By not having a good highway from this Valley it is costing the fruit industry $385,000 annually in extra freight costs, he said.

Reversal Of Travel

The lack of roads and the Dominion government action in allowing Canadians to purchase $100 worth of goods in the United States have reversed travel between Canada and the United States, he claimed, and now there are more Canadian cars crossing the border than Americans entering Canada.

The B.C. debt is fifteen times greater than that of the State of Washington, he said. By the end of the year $6,000 lots in the City of Vancouver will go back to the city for taxes, and he doubted if Vancouver would be able to pay civic salaries this year.

"We will not stand for dishonesty in the C.C.F. party," he continued, "and we will not stand for disloyalty. We went through one little fight recently but we came through."

He insisted that the brewery control had to be taken away. If people must have beer then he would have the government take over control and let the people have beer at cheaper prices, and let the profits go to pay taxes.

The press has been bought by the liquor interests, he claimed, and the same time stating that he was adverse to liquor advertisements in newspapers. Because of this influence he believed the press is keeping out C.C.F. publicity from its columns, "but the time will come when they will be sorry for their attitude."

What the province needs is a farmer in charge of agriculture instead of a dentist and an engineer in charge of roads instead of an undertaker, he believed.

New Zealand Changes

For a time he dwelt on the developments in New Zealand, where he claimed a civil servant could enter a political campaign without fear of losing his job. The New Zealand labour government buys the butter of the country and gives the farmer an average price, worked out on a ten-year period, he claimed. That country raised the pensions and is working out a health insurance act.

He urged his audience to vote for the plebiscite on health insurance as it would not be an indication of support for Dr. Weir's bill. The people do want a health insurance act which will cover everybody, he said.

When the C.C.F. is elected, Dr. Telford continued, it will estimate the amount of produce and other necessities of life needed, for he could not see the sense of growing twice as much as the people need, and then dumping half of it in the sea. His government would consolidate debts and cut the interest rate. He warned that taxation would have to be increased to cover the payments on indebtedness.

He considered the borrowing of $3,000,000 on the eve of an election as an insult to the people of this province. The only way the Pattullo Government obtained this money was by scaring the holders of B.C. bonds in the east into increasing the B.C. debt, with the idea that B.C. bonds would depreciate unless this additional money was forthcoming.

"Give us a chance," he pleaded in conclusion. "We couldn't possibly make any worse mistakes than the present Government. I want to go to Victoria to find out what makes men go wrong when they go to the Legislature. The seven supporters in Ottawa did more good work for the people than all the Conservative opposition put together, and they have never been lobbied," he stated, proudly.

"We are going to make a very good showing, and with all the fighting between the two parties we might slip in between."

Mrs. J. Gibb, Chairman, at the conclusion of the meeting, spoke on behalf of Rev. S. N. Dixon, C.C.F. candidate for South Okanagan, who was unable to be present. A collection was taken to help along the C.C.F. cause, and afterwards a question period was held for a short time.

TORY SPEAKERS
ADDRESS MEETING
AT THE MISSIONMr. T. G. Norris Is Supported By Messrs. W. A. C. Bennett, H. B. D. Lysons And H. R. Bray

OKANAGAN MISSION, May 26.—There was a good turnout for the meeting held in the Schoolhouse on Tuesday evening, May 26th, in the Conservative interests, when Mr. W. A. C. Bennett, Mr. H. B. D. Lysons, and Mr. H. R. Bray all spoke in support of Mr. Norris. Mr. Collett was in the chair.

Mr. Bennett, who spoke first, dismissed the C.C.F. party briefly as unlikely to be an important factor in the coming election, and turned his attention mostly to the need of a Highways Commission, reorganization of the civil service and finance. Although the Liberals had advocated a Highways Commission at the last election, they now opposed it as too costly, even when the revenue of the province had been enormously increased by the Ottawa agreements for which the Bennett government was responsible. He made reference to the Barlee stretch as a typical example of politics in road engineering, this piece of road having been hard-surfaced in spite of recommendations to the contrary. Reorganization of the civil service, beginning at the top, introduction of a merit system and a reduction in the size of the Legislature were all immediate necessities.

The Pattullo government had gone far to ruin the credit of the province, said Mr. Bennett, with some ninety million dollars due in the next few years. The fear of B.C. bonds was evidenced by the holdings of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. with only $32,000 in B.C. government securities, as against two million in Nova Scotia, only their Alberta holdings being less than B.C.

Mr. Bray, who followed, paid tribute to Mr. Norris as the author of the first Marketing Act in Canada, which had been studied and used as a model in Great Britain itself. Mr. Norris also had drawn up the Sales and Consignment Act. He mentioned Hon. Mr. Pattullo's refusal to co-operate in the Farmers Creditors Arrangement Act, so that no scaling down of obligations due by B.C. farmers was possible. In regard to the recent loan, he suggested the truth might be highly inconvenient, and wondered if it were not conditional on the repudiation of a Highways Commission.

Just as Alberta was being drained of liquid assets, of which he cited instances, Mr. Bray feared a similar condition in B.C. under a Liberal regime. He referred to the Special Powers Act as a step beyond Fascism, and in the same high-handed fashion B.C. was told to take the Fraser River bridge and like it, a two million dollar project for four million, while the old bridge was safe for trains but not for a horse and buggy—all this when roads, not bridges, were needed. He mentioned the proposed annexation of the Yukon as Mackenzie King's joke on Pattullo, and a very doubtful luxury. Perhaps they might have five representatives at Victoria, as they had one in Ottawa. He spoke of the blow to mining due to the Hedley Amalgamated disaster, and said that information had been available to the government a year ago, which had not been published.

Mr. Lysons spoke chiefly from the viewpoint of the farmer, and recalled Mr. Norris' own experience as a practical farmer and as a man who would fight to the last ditch frequent battles to secure pensions for returned men. The Conservatives had always had a strong agricultural policy, and a Conservative victory in the province might well mean a return to Conservatism in the next federal election. Agriculture created the most wealth and the most employment. In the lumber industry the export of logs meant loss of employment, and this export had increased under the Liberal policies. At present, with rising costs, agriculture was out of line with industry, the farmer barely earning 10c an hour with no protection such as the industrial Minimum Wage Act. As a farmer, he was in dread of the outcome if the Liberals should be returned to power.

Mr. T. G. Norris, in the concluding speech of the evening, agreed with Mr. Lysons that a reasonable standard of living for the farmer was essential. Capt. Bull had stated that he asked for election on the record of the Pattullo government, and that was the real issue. The whole of Bennett's New Deal legislation had been attacked by Pattullo in a persistent effort to cut down Dominion powers and make the province paramount, the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, putting the farmer on the same basis as the business man, Section 498A which referred to unfair price-cutting; Acts covering the weekly rest, minimum wages and limitation of hours of work had all been opposed simply to exalt provincial rights.

Mr. Norris again discussed the fate of the Natural Products Marketing Act, and said that Hon. K. C. MacDonald and Capt. Bull were helpless in the face of this provincial rights policy. He criticized the Health Insurance Act, which was a national and not a provincial concern, especially as the biggest taxpayers, banks, railroads and the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. were exempt as their activities were not confined to B.C.

The speech closed with a recapitulation of the main planks of the Conservative platform, and an affirmation of his strong adherence to the principle of federal unity.

CHANGE BANK MANAGERS

VERNON, May 27.—Mr. Charles Reid, Manager of the Royal Bank in Vernon, and an active member of the Board of Trade, golf and curling clubs, is being transferred to the Cumberland branch. His place is being taken by Mr. W. S. Strachan, of the St. Lawrence & Craig Branch, Montreal.

Mr. Jack Brechin was a visitor over the holiday week-end to Grand Coulee Dam and Spokane.

Mr. Haskins replied that in his opinion the salary was ample until the growers get on their feet. "Until the average grower is making a living I do not think you can pay high salaries," he stated. He mentioned that the Committee of Direction Chairman received $10,000 per year, and the other two members, $4,000 each.

Mr. A. K. Loyd was the unanimous choice of the meeting as Chairman and Mr. C. A. Hayden as Secretary.

Rumours On Decision

At the outset Mr. W. E. Haskins spoke briefly on the Provincial Marketing Act and introduced some meaty thoughts on the attacks on the Act which are being considered by Mr. Justice Manson.

The Act has been attacked in the courts, he pointed out, and decision has been reserved. What decision will be reached is impossible to say, but some persons have either jumped to conclusions, or some information has leaked out and there are rumours in the Valley that the decision will be adverse.

When the Act was drawn up there was a great lack of time, Mr. Haskins reminded his audience, and several weaknesses could not be argued out to the fullest possible extent. On November 17, Mr. Haskins made several suggestions in a letter to the Deputy Attorney-General, but due to the hurry these were not all changed, and he feared that in one of these points, at least, the Act had a weakness.

Technical Points

The rumour prevalent is that the Judge will find the Act bad on a certain technical point or points, but will not declare it unconstitutional or invalid, Mr. Haskins declared, and for the first time the fruit growers will have an Act which is not ultra vires. He pointed out that despite any adverse decision a second line of defence has been drawn up in the B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., and the agreements with the shippers.

The rest of the morning was occupied in a general discussion of advertising. On Friday the extraordinary general meeting of the B.C.F.G.A. will be held in Kelowna.

Following are the delegates who were appointed to attend the meeting today:

Armstrong, E. S. Dockstader; Coldstream, W. A. Middleton; Creston, J. M. Craigie; East Kelowna, E. B. Powell; Ellison, Jack Anderson; Glenora, C. C. Hume; Grand Forks, Archie C. Lawson; Kaledon, F. W. King; Kamloops, Capt. Geo. Hilliard; Kelowna and Okanagan Mission, R. W. Ramsay; Keremeos, J. H. East; Kootenay, C. S. Squires; Naramata, J. C. Williams; Oliver, H. A. Porteous; Osoyoos, D. E. Burpee; Oyama, T. D. Shaw-McLaren; Peachland, (No meeting); Penikese, A. G. Desbriay; Penticton, A. K. Loyd; Salmon Arm, Capt. D. M. Rutray; Sorrento, C. R. Newman; Summerland, A. McLachlan; Vernon, P. E. French; Westbank, Ira L. Howlett; Winfield and Okanagan Centre, W. J. Cox.

Hembling Found Darkness

All the meetings at the main Valley centres, for the election of delegates, have been held with one exception, that being Peachland. None of the meetings have been well attended, indicating that the growers as a whole are fairly satisfied with the operations of the industry and the increase in fruit prices.

Especially was this apathy evident in Peachland. Mr. O. W. Hembling made a trip to that town for a meeting similar to those held in other portions of the Valley. He arrived shortly before the appointed time to find the designated hall locked and in darkness. He waited for a time and finally a grower joined him. Still no janitor or other person in charge of the hall arrived, and after sitting in his car for 45 minutes, Mr. Hembling decided there would be no meeting and went sadly on his return journey.
